CARDINALS IN WORKOUT AT ROSE BOWL

Rockne Wires From Tucson Irishmen Due In L. A. Wednesday Morning

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—Shifting their training activities to Southern California, Stanford University's football team, coast conference champions, went through a snappy workout at the Pasadena Rose Bowl today in preparation for their struggle against Notre Dame's "wonder team" Thursday afternoon.

Today's workout was one of the hardest of the present training campaign for the Cardinal team and announcement was made that after this afternoon only one more signal drill would be staged. Stanford team arrived here yesterday from Palo Alto and will make its headquarters at the Vista Del Mar hotel in Pasadena. Several hundred followers of the Cardinal crew are expected in town Wednesday.

Knute Rockne, coach of the Notre Dame machine, wired from Tucson, Ariz., today that his outfit would arrive in Los Angeles Wednesday morning at 7:40 o'clock. The team will stay at the Maryland hotel, Pasadena, and will step through its only workout at the bowl Wednesday afternoon.

Rockne evidently is going to try a new training program of his own. It is his belief that the four-day training siege at Tucson will put his team in better shape than if the scrimmage were staged in this section.

Two days ago Notre Dame was quoted as 2 to 1 favorites and supporters of the undefeated and untied South Bend outfit gave Stanford a spot of 14 points.

Yesterday the 14 point edge became a thing of the past and struggles say the eastern representatives are only 5 to 4 favorites. Tickets for the contest are hard.

PALATIAL LINER SAFE FROM GALE

After Two-Day Struggle Cunard Vessel Rides Toward N. Y. Port

ABOARD THE AQUITANIA, Dec. 29.—(By Radio to the International News Service)—After two days' struggle against a full gale of hurricane force and tremendous seas, the Cunard liner Aquitania today was gradually increasing its speed, with the expectation of reaching New York behind schedule but without disaster.

Saturday's run was 220 miles and Sunday's 252, the lowest in the vessel's record.

Captain Charles wishes it made clear that the ship is absolutely undamaged, the personnel is well and the passengers in best of spirits.

Eighty-foot waves have beaten against the ship or broken their crests over its highest decks.

The passengers have danced in the garden lounge while the wind howled and the storm beat against the windows as the liner slowly made bare steering way into the gale.

800 Soldiers Herded Like Cattle and Shot

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Eight hundred Chinese soldiers charged with looting when their pay was held up, were herded into their barracks Christmas day, then led out and executed in Kalgan, Northern China, near the great wall, according to Central News dispatches received today.

Capital Records Quake About 6,000 Miles Off

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—What appeared to be an earthquake of considerable intensity about 6,000 miles from Washington, was recorded Sunday evening on the seismograph at Georgetown university here. The shock was noticeable at 6:50 p. m.

Uncle Sam To Protest Ban On U. S. Spuds

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The United States will protest to Great Britain against the embargo placed on American potatoes because of the potato bug, it was learned at the state department today. The department of agriculture has informed Secretary Hughes that there is no legitimate basis for the embargo as the potato bug is fully under control in this country. It will also be pointed out that discrimination is being shown, as the potato bug is much more prevalent in Canada and yet Canadian potatoes are admitted to Great Britain.

NO BOMB SENT TO VICTIM'S BROTHER

Mystery Package Received By Louis Torchia Found To Contain Candy

Members of the bomb squad from Central police headquarters, Los Angeles, and sheriff's deputies today opened a mysterious package sent to the brother of Ernest M. Torchia, Christmas bomb victim, in the belief that it might contain a second infernal machine designed to carry out the destruction of the whole Torchia family. The package contained a shipment of Christmas candy, officials reported. Louis A. Torchia, the brother, was at a loss to explain the shipment, saying that he did not remember ordering it.

Other sheriff's office operatives are investigating circumstances surrounding the mysterious intrusion of three unidentified men into the drug store owned by Torchia's brother at 450 Whittier boulevard. That the three men, seen by neighbors entering the drug store early Sunday morning, were bent on planting a bomb, but were frightened away before they could accomplish their fiendish aim, was the belief of Louis Torchia, who reported the affair to Contreras, head of the county dry squad.

Torchia went to the dry chief, rather than to other law-enforcing agencies, because a raid was conducted by Contreras and his men on an establishment across the street from the drug store late Saturday night. At that time he believed by the store owner that the officers had also entered his establishment in pursuit of their duties.

Package Refused When a check by Contreras disclosed that the dry squad officers had not entered the Torchia store, the theory that bomb planters were again at work was advanced. Torchia said he feared for his life and then told about the mysterious package which had arrived Saturday. He said it contained no sender's name or address and for that reason he had refused to accept it from the American Express Co.

Today the package, weighing more than ten pounds, was removed to police headquarters, where preparations were made by police bombing experts to open it. The experts worked on the assumption that the package might contain a nitro-glycerine bomb similar to that sent to Ernest

26 Die, 77 Warehouses Wrecked In Explosion

TOKIO, Dec. 29.—Twenty-six were killed, 253 injured and seventy-seven warehouses and other buildings wholly or partly destroyed in Saturday's explosion of gunpowder in transshipment. The loss in the warehouse district was estimated at $150,000. The steamship and railway property loss has not yet been estimated.

Brothers Drown When Boat Capsizes In Bay

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 29.—Search was being made today of the waters of Mission bay for the bodies of Claude and William Warren, brothers, who were drowned yesterday when a row boat in which they were riding capsized. It was believed the bodies were swept out to sea.

JAPAN PRESS WARNED ON U. S. TALK

Foreign Minister Demands Criticism of Naval Maneuvers Stop

By LUTHER HUSTON For International News Service.

TOKIO, Dec. 29.—In an interview today with Japanese newspapermen, Foreign Minister Shidehara advised Japanese newspapers not to stir up questions over the United States Pacific naval maneuvers and the immigration law. He said such agitation was detrimental to international relations and likely to have a "grievous outcome."

The foreign minister declared that Great Britain's Singapore naval base project was not intended as a menace to Japan.

Immigration Ban Discussing the immigration ban, Shidehara said Japan had never been informed that the United States considers the immigration question a closed incident. He declared that he believed the exclusion law was a blunder and thinks that America will some day recognize it as such and rectify the error.

In the meantime he warned the Japanese newspapers, Japan cannot force the United States to rescind the ban. Shidehara denied that he has a plan for the reopening of the issue.

Rancher Proves Hero At Xmas Eve Frolic

WINNEMUCCA, Nev., Dec. 29.—An heroic tale of rescue and Christmas eve tragedy was brought down today from Andrews, a southern Oregon trading post, 150 miles north of here, by a stage driver, Felix Urizar, a rancher, was attending a community dance when fire broke out in the Andrews hotel. Plunging through fire and smoke, Urizar grabbed his baby from a bed in a second-story room where it was sleeping and, blinded by smoke, walked onto a roof porch and fell. The baby was uninjured, but the father is dying.

Former Ruler of Elks Is Dead In San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 29.—Funeral arrangements were being completed today for Robert W. Brown, former grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. E., who died at his home yesterday. Brown was also editor of the "Elks" Magazine. After services are conducted here by the local Elks' lodge Brown's body will be taken to Russellville, Ky., Brown's former home, for interment.

FOUR IN FAMILY ARE FOUND DEAD

Victims Are Decapitated by Blasts From Shotgun; One Person Missing

LOGANSPOUT, Ind., Dec. 29.—A shotgun massacre, with four members of a single family as the victims, was uncovered today, when neighbors broke into the Bassler farm home in an isolated section of Bethlehem township, ten miles north of here. The victims, all virtually decapitated by blasts from a shotgun fired at close range, were: Henry Bassler, 69; Viola, his 3-year-old granddaughter; Mrs. Catherine Bassler, his wife, and John Bassler, 23, a son. Mrs. Emma Hoabin, mother of the murdered child, is missing. The bodies of Miss Bassler and John were found in the snow, outside the house. The grandfather's body was propped up in a chair in the parlor, but bloodstains indicated he was killed while standing near the kitchen door by a shot fired through the glass panel. This was shattered, and bloodstains were found on the floor.

The child's body was lying on the floor of a bedroom adjoining the parlor. A note, giving evidence of having been hastily written, was found in the snow outside the house.

L. A. City And County Union Is Suggested

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—Consolidation of city and county government for Los Angeles and the establishment of a separate county composed of territory which would include the present city of Los Angeles and the cities of Pasadena and Long Beach, was advocated today by President Boyle Workman of the City Council.

In order to accomplish this, all of the remaining sections of the present county would be absorbed by adjoining counties, Workman said. He said consolidation of city and county would be beneficial not only to Los Angeles city, but to all other sections of the present county.

To bring about the consolidation, Workman said, it would be necessary to submit to the voters of the proposed consolidated city and county a new charter providing for the system of government. He said a large body of supervisors, probably thirty, would be required to administer to the affairs of the greater metropolitan area which would comprise Los Angeles.

COMPROMISE M'COY CASE PREDICTED

Court to Keep Jury Out 24 Hours More; Now Stands 10 to 2

BULLETIN LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—Because of the prospect of a compromise verdict by the jury in the case of "Kid" McCoy, Judge Crail announced today he would keep the jurors out for another twenty-four hours in event no agreement was reached before night.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—With ten members fighting to convince two, the jury trying "Kid" McCoy for the murder of Mrs. Teresa Mors today resumed the long battle which it has waged since Friday to reach a decision. The last poll taken by Judge Crail indicated a compromise.

Observers expressed the opinion McCoy would be given a penitentiary sentence. It was improbable, they pointed out, that the former prize fighter will receive the death sentence, owing to the fact that there had been such continued and strenuous opposition among the jurors.

The jury can return a verdict of second degree murder, which carries a sentence of ten years to life imprisonment, or manslaughter, the penalty for which is one to ten years.

FOR POSTMASTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Byron N. Marriott was today recommended for postmaster at Alhambra.

TRINITY COLLEGE NOW DUKE UNIVERSITY

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 29.—After eighty-six years as the seat of Southern Methodist education in North Carolina, Trinity college today became Duke university. Voting unanimously for the acceptance of the gift of James Buchanan Duke of $6,000,000 for building and 32 per cent of the annual income from the remainder of $40,000,000 trust fund, the trustees changed the name of Trinity college to Duke university and the character of the institution from a college to a university.

CHEMIST MAKES REPORT ON YOUTH'S DEATH

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Further evidence of sinister developments in the probe into the death of William McClintock, last blood heir to the McClintock fortune, came this afternoon when the report of the examination of McClintock's exhumed body was made to Coroner Oscar Wolff by Dr. William McNally, coroner's chemist. Details of the report Wolff refused to make public "because it is of such a nature that the findings might be misconstrued." In this connection, also, Wolff made certain to point out that the report was not yet complete.

THIRD SEVERE COLD GRIPS MIDWEST

Mercury Falls to 13 Below In Chicago; Shipping Is Icebound

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Chicago's third severe cold wave in ten days broke today after driving the thermometers down to a low point of 13 below zero, within three degrees of a low temperature record of twenty-five years' standing. But behind it, in the snow which followed in its wake, there remained a trail of death, suffering and property damage.

In Chicago proper there was a total of eight deaths over the week-end attributed directly to the cold, and nearly a score of others were reported from other points in the west and midwest where low temperature records of years were shattered as the thermometers sank as low as forty below zero.

Shipping Icebound Out on the Great Lakes today shipping which had been caught in the frigid blasts was icebound. The steamer "Wisconsin" with sixty aboard is reported fast off Holland, Mich., with all communication lines to surrounding towns down. The Wisconsin was caught in the ice Saturday and today a sister ship, the Alabama, was attempting to reach it.

Off Grand Haven, the car ferry Pere Marquette is reported hard aground and being pounded by ice and a heavy sea. Forty-two persons suffering from cold and lack of food are aboard.

Classes Resume Work In Glendale Schools

Classes were resumed today in all the city schools. At the Broadway High school, the chief topic of conversation was Christmas presents. New suits, new dresses, caps, sweaters, shoes and fountain pens by the hundreds, indicated the Santa Claus had been kind to the pupils. There was no assembly, reports George U. Moyle, but regular schedules were adhered to.

At the Harvard High school, much the same spirit prevailed, while at the Glendale and Wilson Intermediate schools large attendance were registered, reports Richardson D. White, superintendent. The ten elementary schools were also thronged and the Christmas spirit was here, too, evident.

Tonight the Glendale Union Evening High school will reopen at the Harvard High school, reports A. L. Ferguson, principal. Classes starting at 7 o'clock. School will continue Tuesday and Wednesday, closing Thursday and opening on Friday.

FIND DEAD MAN

LANGFORDS WELLS, Cal., Dec. 29.—The body of an unidentified man, with his skull crushed by blows of a heavy instrument, was discovered in the brush about five miles from here on the Tonopah-Silver Lake highway, it was reported today.

LATEST NEWS

15 DIE FROM GAS IN 24 HOURS NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—With fifteen deaths from illuminating gas reported within 24 hours, 54 persons were overcome by coal gas today in a Brooklyn apartment house. Three of today's victims are in a critical condition.

Flood Control Conference On Use of Millions

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—A conference which will have momentous bearing on the county's expenditure of $35,000,000 for flood control projects was scheduled to be held between the Board of Supervisors and State Engineer W. F. McClure this afternoon.

The projected was arranged after McClure's office condemned the plans of two of the three monster dams which had been drawn up by County Flood Control Engineer J. W. Reagan.

These two dams are planned to be erected in the Big Dalton and Santa Anita canyons, and would be far too light for safety if the present construction plans were carried out, according to McClure.

The projected dam at Pacoima was placed under a provisional condemnation by the state engineer, pending a thorough check on the construction plans.

PROPHET NOT RECOGNIZED BY CHURCH

Elder J. L. McElhany Issues Statement on Work of Mrs. Rowen

Considerable publicity has been given to the work of a body of people, calling themselves "Reformed Seventh-day Adventists." The leader and asserted prophetess of this body is Mrs. Margaret W. Rowen. Under the direction of this "prophetess" February 6, 1924, was declared to mark the close of human probation, and one year later, February 6, 1925, has been set as the date for the return of Jesus. Reports indicate that the adherents of this sect are preparing to gather together in one or more places and there await the day for the coming of the Lord.

"The Seventh-day Adventist denomination has never recognized the claim of Mrs. Rowen as a prophet inspired of God," declared Elder J. L. McElhany, president of the Pacific Union Conference. "Neither do they believe that probation closed February 6, 1924, nor that February 6, 1925, will see the return of Jesus Christ."

Without Sanction "While Seventh-day Adventists are firmly convinced that the return of the Lord is near, a belief concurred in by many devoted Christians of all denominations, yet Adventists, as a denomination, do not set the year, nor the day for that event. If there are those within their ranks who fix upon a date for the second advent, it is done without the sanction of the body. Mrs. Rowen and her followers are not members of the Seventh-day Adventist church, neither do they speak for the Seventh-day Adventist denomination."

"This setting of dates for the return of Jesus is something out of and apart from the work of the Seventh-day Adventists and is not sanctioned at all by them. The people who are doing this are bringing reproach upon the Advent cause. It will result in confusion and embarrassment to those who are taking part in it. We are to watch for the return of the Lord, but no one has been delegated to say just when it will occur."

Glendale Expects to Break Building Mark

Glendale has only $91,440 to go, in order to equal the 1923 building record, when a total for the year of $10,047,601 was rolled up, an achievement without equal in the country, for a city of similar size. At noon today, the total for 1924 stood at $9,555,161. The total for December stood at $631,450. With two and one-half days still left for permits to be taken out, H. C. Vandewater, building superintendent, is confident the record of last year will not only be equaled but exceeded.

FIRE LOSS $15,000

SAN MATEO, Cal., Dec. 29.—A spectacular fire today completely destroyed the one-story building here of the Floral City Athletic club with a loss estimated at $15,000. No one was hurt.

GOVERNMENT TO ASK CLEAR EXPLANATION ON PAYMENT OF DEBT

Nation Will Be Requested To Declare Whether It Intends To Meet War Obligation of Four Billions

BULLETIN PARIS, Dec. 29.—The flat statement was made in the Chamber of Deputies by Finance Minister Clementel today that "the United States has no legal right to a claim for reparations from Germany with the allies because it did not sign the Versailles treaty." M. Clementel said he had told this to Colonel Logan, who is acting for the United States government in the matter of reparations. "The French government will not negotiate a settlement of other allied debts without consulting parliamentary committees," Clementel told his colleagues.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The American government regards with considerable apprehension France's conspicuous ignoring of her war debts, and it was indicated strongly here today that the United States will shortly take steps to obtain from France a clear and unequivocal statement as to whether or not she intends to pay the $4,000,000,000 borrowed here.

The highest officials of the administration made it clear today that they consider the statement of the French finance minister to parliament on Saturday as constituting little short of direct repudiation, and it is probable that a note will soon be dispatched challenging the view that Chairman Clementel expressed.

Hughes in Conference The state department's concern over the matter was early manifested today by Secretary of State Hughes sending to the treasury department for all the data bearing on the French loans in this country. He conferred also with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wadsworth, the foreign loan expert of the treasury, as well as secretary to the American debt funding commission.

Vigorous dissent was voiced by administration officials to the proposition, advanced by M. Clementel for a "general pooling" of war debts by the allied countries, and his recommendation that the costs of the war be apportioned among them on the basis of "ability to pay."

This would only mean, it was pointed out, that the United States would, as the nation "most able to pay," bear the burden of billions of dollars.

Officials expressed themselves today as loath to believe that M. Clementel's refusal to class France's war debts as liabilities in the governmental balance sheet he presented to the chamber constitutes the forerunner of repudiation, although they admitted that the French government has veered closer to repudiation by this one act than it has ever done before.

Past Promises Every document that has passed between the two governments bearing on the debt has indicated, it was said, that France intends to pay. And from two of France's official spokesmen in this country have come the direct pledge to pay.

Consequently the Clementel statement to parliament has the appearance of an "about-face" on the part of the French government that is of serious concern to this government.

M. Clementel told parliament that the money that France borrowed in this country went into a common cause of winning the war. Administration officials challenged the correctness of this statement today by pointing out that one-fourth of the total debt was contracted by France after the armistice was signed. The United States treasury gave in excess of one billion dollars in exchange for demands notes after November 11, 1918.

The money that went into foreign loans during and after the war, it was emphasized, came from the sale of liberty bonds. The American government is now paying millions of dollars annually in interest to holders of these bonds and getting no interest from the debtor nations, save Great Britain.

If these war loans are repudiated, it means, one administration official emphasized, that the American taxpayers will have to put up the money to redeem the bonds.

Historic Coney Island Threatened by Flames

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Fanned by a high wind blowing from the ocean, a fire starting in a bath house this afternoon threatened historic Coney Island. A call for all the fire apparatus in Brooklyn was sent in at 1:38 o'clock this afternoon.

AGED COUPLE OVERCOME BY GAS

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Carson Found Dead at Home on South Pacific

When A. M. Carson, head bookkeeper for the Packer Auto Co., Inc., failed to show up at his work today, H. G. Peters, an employee, went to the Carson home at 137 South Pacific avenue to see if anything was wrong with Mr. Carson or his wife. No one at the residence could be raised. Peters and neighbors broke in the front door and found Mr. Carson and his wife dead in their chairs, the victims of gas fumes from a small heater which was still burning.

The couple, well known in Glendale, had apparently been dead for 24 hours or more. Their bodies were stiff and cold. Police and firemen were quickly summoned with pulmotor but failed in their efforts to revive the aged couple. The discovery of the double tragedy took place at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon. According to Mr. Peters, he went to the Carson home after lunch to ascertain if anything serious was wrong with Mrs. Carson. Carson had left the Packer sales office Saturday at noon, when his wife called up and told him she was feeling badly.

Found Car in Garage Neighbors told Mr. Peters they had seen no one enter or leave the house since Saturday. An investigation disclosed that the family car was in the garage although no response came to repeated raps at the front and back door. Mr. Peters peered through the front window and saw the couple dead in their chairs.

The front door was broken down and emergency aid called. Desperate work on the part of police and fire pulmotor squads failed to produce any sign of life. Police stated the couple had been dead for some time.

Mr. Carson had been employed at the Packer Motor Car Co. as head bookkeeper since 1921. Both he and his wife were past fifty years of age.

Eckersall Will Present Grid Title Trophy

Walter Eckersall, called one of the greatest football men of all time, will present the trophy symbolic of the Southern California grid championship in the unlimited class, to the Glendale Union High school tomorrow afternoon. The presentation ceremony will be held in the auditorium of the Broadway High school and will start at 2:30 o'clock. The three banners won by the three football teams in the Central league for 1924, will also be presented to the school tomorrow afternoon, and members of the three teams who won their coveted letters will be named.

GRAND VIEW WILL ORGANIZE CHURCH

Community Presbyterian to Be Formally Opened With Baptism

The Grand View Community Presbyterian church will be organized next Sunday by Dr. Guy W. Wadsworth, executive secretary of the board of church extension and Dr. William S. Young, stated clerk of Los Angeles Presbytery, together with Rev. G. W. Thomas, the pastor. Members will be received by baptism, profession of faith and by letter. Baptism of infant children and a Communion service will follow, to which all Christians are invited.

The special attention of the prospective membership of the new church is called to the preparatory service which will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 at the schoolhouse in place of the regular prayer meeting. This meeting is for the purpose of preparing the mind and heart for the receiving of the Body and Blood of the Lord at communion, and also for examining those who are to unite by profession and a final check up on the letters. This is a most important service, especially in the establishment of a new church, and coming on New Year's Eve it will be doubly significant. All who are to unite with the church are expected to be present if it is possible for them to attend.

Xmas Sermon

Christmas Sunday was observed at the Grand View Community church yesterday with the Christmas sermon at the morning service. A solo was rendered by Mr. Ogle and another by Mrs. Morgan, both of whom have musical training. "The heart of the Christmas message," said the pastor, "is found in the exultant singing of Simeon as the infant Redeemer was brought to his arms: 'Mine eyes have seen thy salvation which thou hast prepared before the face of all people; a light to lighten the Gentiles and the glory of thy people, Israel.'"

"Simeon spoke out of the heart of a world dying of selfishness, motivated with hate and cruelty, and darkened with superstition and fear. The fullness of time was come. He had waited for the consolation of Israel. Now, as the holy child was laid in his arms the veil was lifted from his earthly vision and he saw the wonder and glory of the Salvation Jehovah had sent unto all nations."

"As the star hung in beauty over Bethlehem, men had said, 'Unto us a child is born,' but the angels bowed their heads and whispered, 'The Word is made flesh.' Simeon saw with the angels the creating word come to answer the age long, aching need of the human race."

"He saw a divine power of redemption, man born anew, a fresh creation freed from sin and helplessness. He saw a new, transforming motive brought into human life, the love of God to be wrought into human hearts and relationships. He saw Light streaming from the Star of Bethlehem to light the world onward to the glory of a new civilization, an onward to the Kingdom of God most high."

"Today we also glory in what he saw. Much of it is already come to pass. Salvation is here. Let us accept it in its fullness. The great love motive is here. Let us share and live it. The glory of the Kingdom is dawning wider and wider. Let us walk and rejoice in its upbuilding."

YESTERDAY RULES TOMORROW'S ACTS

Rev. C. M. Calderwood Talks On Value of Future as Judged by Past

"Yesterday and Tomorrow" was the topic of the sermon delivered at the morning services yesterday at the First Congregational church by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor. Rev. Calderwood said in part:

"As we stand at the close of the year, it is well for us to consider that every great, strong, influential life is rooted in the past. Each day is only a point where a multitude of noble yesterdays have poured all their treasures. Civilization is a granary in which 10,000 yesterdays have stored their tools, arts, knowledge, laws and literature."

"Yesterdays, many and good, are pledges of tomorrows, peace and happiness. Bad yesterdays bring evil tidings for tomorrow. He is a wise man who stores up useful yesterdays that he may have a treasure for tomorrow."

Future Before All

"The great life is in the future. Men are not always saved by a noble memory. It often hinders. We are not safeguarded by the present. Too much living in the past paralyzes the nerve of activity. Too much living in the present brings the horizon too close. Man's real life is in the future. Beyond the horizon lies your true life. Use the past and the present to make your future what it should be. There are no failures that are irretrievable. Under God all mistakes can be corrected."

"Tomorrow holds a desert that may be made to blossom as a rose. Tomorrow holds a conflict that may be won. Today is short, but tomorrow is long. Next year offers an arena for you for noble action. Next year offers a cau-

REV. KEMP GIVES NEW YEAR IDEAS

Suggests Christian Thoughts For Another Year by Episcopal Pastor

Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, took as his text yesterday, "Thoughts for Another Year of Christian Life," saying:

"The future is always calling us to make a greater endeavor for the kingdom of Jesus Christ. As we stand on the threshold of another year we should see how we can approach nearer our ideal. As St. Paul says we should forget those things which are behind and stretch forth to those things which are before pressing towards the mark of the high calling in Christ Jesus. As Christian people the new year is calling us to a perfection of our spiritual lives."

"Life as St. Paul tells us is a race in which none of us can be bystanders. There is no grandstand in this race to which we can flee. It is a race between Christ and spiritual decay in which we have no choice but to press on to the goal. This is so if we once accept two propositions."

"First, that we believe the religion of the spiritual life is the best assurance against moral decay lapses into barbarism and gives a sense of the true dignity of life, and second, that the gospel of Jesus Christ gives us the best foundation for the spiritual life. With this in mind the new year calls us to consider the spiritual life from three angles. First we must have an intelligent conviction about our religion."

Study More Intelligently

"It is not enough to accept the dogmas of the past without question. People are like the two different styles of books; one gives no footnotes, bibliography, or references and the author's opinions must be taken on his say so, the other has a reason for the faith that is in him. The church asks us to be intelligent and worship God with our minds. To this end let us resolve to study more intently the Bible without being afraid of modern scholarship."

"A timorous Christian makes a poor apostle. In the second place let us strive for a deeper spirit of loyalty to Christ in the practice of the devotional life. You can make the services more vital by your interest and attendance at them. They are the chosen means for the corporate worship of our fellowship. By the life of prayer which is the center of worship many of the vexatious problems of life find settlement. Further than that carry the devotional life into your homes and make it a vital part of your home life. Family prayers and grace at meals are not trivial formalities but a real avenue of approach to God. There are enough foreign influences at work in our lives to make the need of this spirit of devotion very essential."

"As St. Paul says, this one thing I do, seek Christ. Let us not make this season a time for vain regrets but one for vowing a greater enthusiasm for the things of the spirit as the best foundation for a purposeful and worth while life."

DENIS AND SHAWN OPEN NEXT WEEK

American Dancers to Appear At Philharmonic First Week in January

Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn with their company of American dancers, will appear for a week's engagement at the Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles, the first week in January, under the management of L. E. Behmyer. They are presenting three distinct programs which include all dance drama ballets and dances which have been presented in the past for the past three seasons by these players.

Miss St. Denis is presenting for the first time Ishtar, a mystic dance of the Babylonian Aphrodite, or Goddess of Love, a creation with music. Music visualization in all Miss St. Denis' original creations will have a part in each program. The vision of Alissoune, with music by R. S. Shostakovich is a new Algerian dance drama in three scenes, created and produced by Ruth St. Denis and costumed by Pearl Wheeler. It is a story of an Algerian dancing girl and properties, costumes and settings were brought from North Africa by Mr. Shawn.

Miss St. Denis also is producing Theodora, empress of Byzantium, in gorgeous setting and fascinating poses which are authentic in every detail. There is no group of dancers before the public to-day who are presenting programs of so much variety and color. They have spent years in the study of the manners, customs and art productions of the countries whose native dances they have interpreted for America and bring to the American public a finished art.

vas on which you may paint a beautiful picture. There is a race to run tomorrow. Let not wicked memories impede your progress. Let not pride of success blind your eyes. Clean the windows of your faith that you may see the unseen. Buckle on your armour for the fight. Press forward with energy and speed to the mark. Redeem the time, for it is short. God has given you many years; give him back next year not tarnished but bright and glorified by a consecrated use."

REV. JOHNSON ON CHRISTMAS TEXT

Broadway Methodist Pastor Talks of 'Peace on Earth' Sunday

"They have healed also the hurt of the daughter of my people slightly, saying, peace, peace; when there is no peace."

Preaching from this text yesterday morning at the Broadway Methodist church, Rev. Maurice M. Johnson endeavored to show with a birthday party Saturday, given by Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGillis, at their home, 1003 East Lomita avenue. The afternoon was spent in talking over war-time experiences, and later, delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. McGillis.

Captain Shaw celebrated his 83rd birthday Saturday and Captain Palmer celebrated his 83rd birthday yesterday. Both men were in battles during the Civil war. Captain Palmer was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg and Captain Shaw was wounded at Chattanooga.

Captain Palmer, who is a poet, has written a poem on the G. A. R. resolutions, this being entitled, "Written on My Eighty-third Birthday." Both men expressed their appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. McGillis for their hospitality in helping in the celebration of their birthdays.

Rev. Milligan Unable To Continue Preaching

Word has been received that Rev. L. J. Milligan, former pastor of the Broadway Methodist church, who was appointed to fill the pastorate at Woodlawn Methodist church, Los Angeles, at the last session of conference, has suffered a breakdown in health and has joined the superannuated ranks. A delegation from the Broadway Methodist church went to Los Angeles yesterday to hear Rev. Milligan deliver his last sermon, but he was unable to fill the pulpit.

PANTALETES BACK

Fashion houses in Paris insist that to complete the effect of the early Victorian frocks, which are still in favor, pantalettes must be worn.

He is King now, only of those individual hearts that have been cleansed by His blood. "The only 'Peace on earth' today is that peace which He gives to those individual hearts. The talk of national peace and international peace is purely time-talk; only very temporary, for there can be no genuine peace until the Prince of Peace is recognized, known and worshipped. But some day, blessed be God, He will come again to ascend the throne and reign in majesty and great glory. The zeal of the Lord of Hosts will perform this."

TWO CONFEDERATE VETS ARE GUESTS

Birthday Party Is Held for N. H. Palmer, J. D. Shaw At McGillis Home

Captain N. H. Palmer of 426 South Adams street and Captain James D. Shaw of 1010 East Windsor road, the only two members of the Confederate army who fought in the Civil war now living, were guests at a birthday party Saturday, given by Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGillis, at their home, 1003 East Lomita avenue. The afternoon was spent in talking over war-time experiences, and later, delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. McGillis.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Two days left in which to shove the Glendale building permit figures over ten million dollars for the year!

It is the hope of Superintendent H. C. Vandewater that the total be at least $10,100,000 to exceed last year's figure.

The Glendale Realty board and Chamber of Commerce are exerting every effort to make it so, but it will take initiative on the part of prospective builders to get their permits within 48 hours.

Building totals this year in many cities are affected by the reduction in material and labor costs. This is estimated conservatively at 13 per cent and in Southern California it is now being built at 15 per cent less than two years ago when construction was at a peak throughout the country.

Now is the time for people to build. Lumber prices are going higher! However, there is some compensation in the thought that labor is more efficient, as a general rule, when work is not too plentiful. The unskilled artisan finds his services unwanted.

All of which reveals the desirability of being an expert in one or more lines, particularly if you are an artisan. The carpenter who studies plumbing and electrical problems; the plumber who is well versed in heating problems, as well as sanitary methods; the electrician who understands the selling costs of fixtures—all of these men can be of great service to the other workers building homes.

For in the last analysis, home building, city building and nation building is simply the process of making this a more pleasant world in which to live. When work is slighted there is going to be grief for someone later, and oftentimes you hear a plumber or electrician say:

"I could wring the neck of the fellow who did this job in the first place, for he ought to have known better."

That is the theme of today—to know best how to do things. Considering those who have achieved success, financially and otherwise, you will usually find that they knew how to approach their task, although they paid dearly in the school of experience for their education.

PRESIDING ELDER HAS CONFERENCE

Quarterly Reports Are Read At Broadway Methodist Church Last Night

Rev. Charles D. Bulla, D. D., presiding elder of the Los Angeles district, conducted quarterly conference last night at the Broadway Methodist church. Reports from the workings of the various boards and societies of the church were given and found to be in excellent growth.

J. N. McGillis, superintendent of the Sunday school, gave the Sunday school report and Rev. Bulla stated that the report was the best Sunday school report he had ever heard. Eric C. Johnson, O. B. Staples and H. G. Ross were added to the board of trustees and G. H. Nelson was added to the board of stewards of the church.

Members of various committees appointed were: Mrs. M. M. Johnson, missionary committee; N. J. Haynes, evangelistic committee; O. B. Staples, Christian education; H. G. Ross, titling; Mrs. Fannie J. Ford, social service; N. J. Haynes, superannuated endowments; J. T. Asbury, auditing; Mrs. N. M. White, director of Red Cross society. Members of the conference expressed great hopes for the future of the Broadway Methodist church.

British Pound Highest Since Wartime Loss

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The value of the British pound sterling in terms of the American dollar stood at the highest level since 1919 today when demand cables at 4.73 1-4, an increase of sterling was quoted at the opening of 1-4 from closing on Saturday. The market at 4.73 and Sterling exchange market has advanced about 3 cents to the pound since the middle of last week.

London Thames Waters Still Continues Rising

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Thames was still rising today, with floodgates opened everywhere against the possible destruction from swollen waters, following the rains of the past week. Other English rivers are overflowing and property damage already is heavy.

IN SCOTLAND

HERE'S NEW YEAR'S BOOZE RIVERSIDE, Dec. 29.—Breathe not a word. A booze cache has been found! And it is going to be spilled New Year's day—into the sewer—the whole 100 gallons or so, seized by the Riverside police recently, according to Ralph Johnson, deputy marshal.

NEW CREAMERY PLANT

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 29.—The Los Angeles Creamery Co. has purchased four lots here for the construction of a $60,000 plant and office building to serve as headquarters of the company for San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties, it is reported.

ORANGES TO ENGLAND

SAN PEDRO, Dec. 29.—More than 5,000 boxes of citrus fruit were shipped in the refrigerator holds of the motorship Loch Goll which left this week for Liverpool, England. The ten carloads of oranges will reach English consumers the middle of January.

INCORPORATE SILICA MINE

CORONA, Dec. 29.—Max B. Fitch of this city and associates have incorporated the Corona Silica Co. and plan to commence operations at their holdings near here the first of March, supplying sand needed in glass manufacture in Southern California.

THERE MAY BE OIL

PERRIS, Dec. 29.—Perris, not Paris, cannot get excited, nevertheless the barber told the butcher who told the grocer that the barber shaved a man who said he was drilling a well in Mockingbird canyon on the road to Elsinore and he struck a pocket of gas so strong it blew out the string of drilling tools. So the grocer told the butcher to tell the barber that there may be oil in the hills. But Perris isn't excited—not this week. For maybe it's only gas!

DOUBLE LETTUCE ACREAGE

SANTA MARIA, Dec. 29.—There will be upwards 4000 carloads of lettuce harvested in this vicinity in 1925, although early vegetable growers had a narrow escape from losing their crops in the Christmas cold snap. The acreage has been doubled in the Guadalupe valley.

Three New Boats for Coastwise Shipping

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Increased freight and passenger traffic between San Francisco and Mexican west coast ports is to result shortly in the addition of three new ships to the Mexican State line. The company now operates four ships of about 900 tons each.

'END IS NOT YET' PASTOR'S SERMON

Dr. Winnard, Tropic Church, Speaks of Remaining Days of Worship

As a subject appropriate for the last Sunday in the year, Dr. J. F. Winnard, pastor of the Tropic Presbyterian church, yesterday morning spoke from the text, "The End Is Not Yet," saying:

"The end of the year approaches. But the end is not yet. There remain yet three days before this year has passed into history. By intense service more may be crowded into those three days than was put into any thirty days. Many things would 'take but a moment.' After this noon hour we have more than five thousand moments left of this year in which we may accomplish five thousand different things."

"The end of life approaches. But the end is not yet. But we know not how soon. Present or past is no basis for boasting for the future. But while time is here and life is strong, remember that man's chief end and duty is to glorify God and to enjoy Him forever. I am no apostle of gloom, but I would not hold out to any one of you the false hope that there is yet plenty of time, but rather would I improve your minds with the obligation of a present opportunity."

"The end of the world approaches. But the end is not yet. There are those who read in the events of the passing year the imminent coming of our Lord. Of this I am just as ignorant as all others, and no more so. For even the angel who heralded the first coming knows not the day nor the hour of the second coming of our Lord. But while life and time are ours we should make such use of them that when our Lord does come He will find us ready."

"There is another way of looking at the text. But it is the way of the fool. The way of the man who says 'the end is not yet. Let us eat, drink and be merry.' Who says to his soul, 'take thine ease, thou hast much goods laid up for many days.' But to whom the Lord says, 'Thou fool, this night shall thy soul be required of thee.' And then comes the end. And the end is only the beginning of eternity."

Big Grape Vineyards In Missouri Planned

DON TYLER TO SPEAK AT BANQUET

Boy Orator to Talk on U. S. Constitution Tuesday Night at Church

Many reservations are being made for the Federated Church Brotherhood banquet tomorrow night at Glendale Presbyterian church. With Don Tyler, boy orator, and "Fighting Bob" Shuler as speakers, the gathering promises to be one of interest.

In addition to the speaking there will be music by a male quartet from the University of Southern California. Tickets can be secured from Mr. Goss or R. P. Kitterman at the Security Trust & Savings bank, or at the Glendale book store. The boy orator is to give his oration on the constitution, while Mr. Shuler will speak on "America and Christian Civilization at the Forks of the Road."

MUSIC SOCIETIES PLAN MEETINGS

Two-Day Conference Will Be Held by Civic Art Club Jan. 2, 3

Community music and the allied arts will be discussed by speakers of national reputation in a two-day conference to be held in Los Angeles on January 2 and 3, 1925, under the auspices of the Southern California Civic Music and Art association. Extended programs are under arrangement for both days, the meetings to be conducted in Chickering hall, 806 Broadway. Night sessions will also be held, the place to be announced later.

On Saturday afternoon, January 3, the meeting will be given over to the fifth regional conference of the Southern California Elsteddoff, which was first organized through the efforts of the Civic Music and Art association. This will be the next meeting to follow the recent conference in Glendale, when over 150 prominent representatives of more than a score of communities attended a business meeting, dinner and program in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

All persons interested in the broader community development of music, drama and art are invited to attend as many of the meetings as possible. The conference is expected to draw a large Glendale attendance following the increase of interest shown here in the regional and recent smaller district meetings. The program for the two-day gathering will be announced later.

CLAIM YOUTH HID LETTERS IN BARN

Special Delivery Messenger Held to Answer Postal Law Violation

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Dec. 29.—Fourteen-year-old Harold Nead, of this city, faces prosecution for the alleged violation of postal regulations and forgery, following his arrest.

Nead, employed at the local postoffice as a special delivery messenger, was said to have admitted he forged names to delivery blanks and opened three letters entrusted to him for delivery. He is said to have concealed scores of letters he failed to deliver in a barn and under a sidewalk. The police were led to the hiding places by the boy, who is held pending instructions from the United States District Attorney.

Wind-driven airplanes will be built.

Dobinson Players to Present Benefit Show

Mrs. Florence Dobinson is promising to give Glendale residents and visitors a real thriller in the mystery play, "The Hole in the Wall," to be presented after the present play, "I Love You," in which the Dobinson players are enjoying such success. Sure of the popularity that will meet the presentation of "The Hole in the Wall," Mrs. Dobinson announces that the performance of Friday night, January 9, will be a benefit for the Tuesday Afternoon club. Mrs. Homer D. Lockwood, chairman of ways and means, is co-operating in plans for the benefit, hoping that the auditorium will be filled with club members and their families and friends.

NEW AUDITORIUM SCENE OF DANCES

Fowler Building Attracts Many to Verdugo City Saturday Night

Verdugo City's new auditorium in the Fowler building is now the scene of considerable social activity and a dance is being held by some organization every Saturday night. The Fowler building is located at Honolulu and Los Angeles avenues, one mile west of Montrose bank. The dances are rigidly censored and Mr. Fowler says parents will be safe in permitting their daughters and sons to attend these dances.

The Fowler building was put up by H. N. Fowler at a cost of $34,500 and is one of the best appointed in Southern California. The George J. Lyons drapery shop made and hung the orange velvet draperies which harmonize with the Tiffany walls. There are women's and men's retiring and lounging rooms; maple floor in which the wax was burnished in, giving a smoother dancing surface than ordinary floors; and other convenient features.

May & Hellman were the contractors and the hall is used for many civic purposes, welfare work, kindergarten work and a movement is now on foot to organize a People's church. The Odd Fellows also use the hall. A drug store and market occupy two of the store rooms and the new postoffice will occupy the third one. The bond of Emil Busch as postmaster has been approved and papers and fixtures for the post-office are now on their way from Washington. The second floor of the building also has fourteen offices and a kitchen capable of serving 150 people.

Special Services at Zion Lutheran Church

Special services will be held by the Zion Lutheran congregation, Isabel street and East California avenue, Tuesday night, beginning at 8 o'clock. Special music will be rendered and Rev. H. O. Kringle will give an address, the theme being "Christ, Our Guide During the Coming Year." An invitation is extended to all desiring to attend.

Missouri Has Biggest Record Building Year

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29.—This has been the biggest year in building construction that Missouri has had since the war. The eleven months' total of $130,000,000 expended is larger than the total for the entire year of 1923, and 10 per cent heavier than for the corresponding period last year.

Work, Play Clothing Showing Heavy Sales

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 29.—The P. D. Lee Mercantile Co. expects 1925 to be a record year. The rate of sales of work clothing in the last two weeks has been exceeded only once before, in 1922. Sales of play clothing for children have been the largest in the history of the company.

Because few Germans can afford to buy jewelry, practically all that is made there is being shipped to other countries to be sold.

EXCHANGE OF XMAS GIFTS IN ORDER

Shops Busy Catering to Unsatisfied; Flannels Top Winter Cloth

By AILEEN LAMONT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—A fair exchange may be no robbery but the merchants do not feel like it. The flood of Xmas gifts has not stopped but it started today to flow in the opposite direction, back to the stores. The shops were prepared for it, however, and submitted with equanimity to exchange of duplicate and unappreciated gifts in view of the opportunity afforded them to display the new winter resort costumes and rid their shelves of lingering articles of winter wear. There can be no question that the flannels will play a prominent role in the costumes of the winter resort season of 1925 both for sport clothes and for more formal day time wear. White is predominant. But it is relieved and set off by trimmings of contrasting colors. Occasionally the collars and cuffs of the blouses are of brilliantly colored suede. Lines, as might be expected, are straight and narrow, the straighter and narrower than the paths the wearers will tread, but freedom of movement is provided either by the flared skirt or by pleatings.

There promises to be a revival of the wide and floppy hat with cape lined Bangkoks and Milan braids furnishing the framework for delicately colored flower or feather trimming. An exception to the wide shapes is found in the wool and felt sport hats which are soft of texture, narrow of brim and rather high of crown. To these a single touch of color is furnished by a tiny feather tucked into the band at the side.

In the evening, the visitor to the southern resorts is expected to scintillate but not necessarily in wit. In fact the conversation of some of the most successful debutantes is frequently confined to remarks such as "yes," "no," and "stop." Frocks, however, must sparkle either through the medium of the metallic materials and laces or by trimmings of beads and rhinestones. The vogue for ostrich feathers as trimmings on nearly every article of evening dress, shows no sign of diminishing and some evening frocks are redeemed from perfect plainness by a huge frond of feathers placed at one hip.

Whether she follows the galloping dominoes on the beach or the galloping horses from the paddocks of the winter tracks, the southern traveler will surely carry a parasol, preferably one of brilliant oriental design with a short stubby Japanese carved handle. She will not remain under it, however, for what use to go south unless one's sunburn proclaims that fact on the return?

The rush back to the shops today disclosed the fact that the least part of a sales person's assets is an English, Scotch or Irish accent. Merchants have lost so many customers through discourtesy of American clerks that there has been a quick move to secure British sales people. Therefore a "popped 'h'" is no error in the selling game and an ability to roll an "r" with a North of Tweed twist is adding weight to many a pay envelope. Also a customer may refer to the "Clarks" without having a floor walker believe she is talking about some of her neighbors.

Concentration Plays Big Part In College

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Graduating from college in two and a half years is "merely a matter of concentration," according to Abraham Tonkin, of New York city, student of economics in the College of Liberal Arts, who will receive his diploma in February. Tonkin, who has averaged twenty-six credit hours of study a semester instead of the customary sixteen, has also taken part in athletics in the cross-country, swimming and crew squads and has participated in debate work. After his graduation at mid-year, Tonkin will enter the Harvard Business school for a two-year course in international banking and finance, he said.

SO MANY GOOD PEOPLE—

Fall to consider their private lives essential to the public good. Forget that religion is more than abstaining from some things. Are contented so long as their personal fortunes are not subject to attack. Seem to think the work is done when a law is passed. Are long on criticism and short on assistance.

GOMPERS' SUCCESS

Many eulogies of Samuel Gompers have been written since his death. He is mourned alike by the representatives of organized labor and the capitalists of the country. People who knew of him only as a labor leader have, since he has gone, learned something about his life, which is an example of what faith and determination can accomplish. Sixty years ago, Samuel Gompers arrived in the United States, a little immigrant boy, unknown and unnoticed. When he passed away two weeks ago the president of the United States sent words of condolence to his family and the news of his passing went to the far corners of the world.

That could not have happened in any other country, and none realized the opportunities of America more than Samuel Gompers himself. One source of his strength was his love for America and American institutions and his strong opposition to foreign radical methods in the handling of the cause of labor. He was the general who brought about a revolution in this country, practically without bloodshed, and so gradually and sanely that few realized a revolution was in progress. Other countries have not been so fortunate in those who have led, or who have attempted to lead the people into the light of a better relationship.

In commenting upon the life of Samuel Gompers and what he accomplished, an exchange says: "Antagonistic organizations, whether trades unions, employers' unions or nations, have been slow to recognize the spirit of love in human relations. Yet we believe that the measure of Mr. Gompers' success was fixed by his efforts to accomplish harmonious relations with employers. His failure is recorded in those union rules and exactions which tend to keep alive and intensify the antagonisms between employer and employee. In proportion as one seeks his own in another's good he will find that good accrues to him. In proportion as men, and associations of men, make the Golden Rule the touchstone by which their acts shall be tested will the harmony and prosperity of men, classes and nations be enhanced."

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

A vivid picture of the contrast between the farmer in the United States today and the old world farmer, described by Carlyle as "the toil-worn craftsman that with earth-made implement laboriously conquers the earth," is presented by Eustace E. Windes, a member of the U. S. Bureau of Education. The American farmer, after sixty years of agricultural education fostered by the federal department of agriculture and the state agricultural colleges and experiment stations, produces, per worker, many times more than the old world farmers produce. The increased production comes through education in productive processes and particularly through education in the use of labor-saving tools. The American farmer today expends less than 20 per cent of the labor in producing the nine principal crops of the country that he expended in producing the same quantity of these crops in 1850. The American farmer today often cannot be distinguished from the brain worker in bearing or in breadth of scholarship.

But Mr. Windes believes that, while agricultural education in the past has concerned itself with such matters as the right use of machinery, control of pests, conservation of soil fertility, use of fertilizers, improvement of plants and animals and the like, the time has come when there must be included in his curriculum the problems of distribution through which he will realize a just return for his commodities. He must learn to react to legislative programs, to use the credit machinery of the government. He must learn to use the information concerning world and domestic demand for agricultural products as well as become familiar with the law, the agencies for buying and selling, transporting and storing. "It seems well to realize," says Mr. Windes, "that these phases of education for agricultural pursuits are as definitely vocational as the skill involved in operating a farm tractor."

STOP SALE OF GUNS

The movement and sentiment against the promiscuous carrying and use of guns are spreading. The well known mail order firm of Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago has announced that it has discontinued the sale of all kinds of firearms. This decision, according to this firm, "is based on our desire to protect our good name and maintain the public good will. We feel the moral side of all public questions is the right side, not only because we want to be right, but because it is good business."

It is difficult to legislate pistols out of general use, but such action as that taken by this mail order house is a move in the right direction, and will have a better effect than a law prohibiting the possession of firearms. Someone has said that for every home saved from marauders by the presence of a gun there is one into which tragedy has stalked for the same reason.

GERMAN STUDENTS LABOR

A student of educational matters and methods says that one of the most hopeful signs for the severing of class distinctions in Germany and the democratization of the country is the great change that has come about in German university life in the past few years.

Formerly the life of the German university student was a symbol of all that is care-free and picturesque. How we delighted in the stories and songs of "Old Heidelberg." Before adversity came to Germany it was unthinkable that the student should engage in any form of labor.

But now it is different. Necessity has paved the way for the democratization of the universities and students now engage in manual labor in order to pay their way through the universities in as matter of fact a manner as they do in the United States. And this, it is thought, will have a wholesome effect upon the country.

THE NEW ERA

The drunkard is the exception today, where he was once a common sight, says Wayne Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League. "The closing of orphanages and the crowding of schools registers the new era of childhood, since prohibition came. Labor has had fewer strikes and has made more gains than when drink was a factor in industrial differences. We are breaking all records for home buying and home building. We are better clothed than when 'rags and bottles' went together."

Painting America's Prettiest, Big Task

A year ago Ernst Linnenkamp, Austrian artist, came to the United States to paint the fifteen prettiest women to be found in the United States. Mere doll-like beauty was not sought. Personality was an indispensable requisite. He spent months selecting his subjects from the vast number of eligible beauties. Now he has labored more months at his task of portraying their loveliness. His wife was one of the women he selected. The painting in the center above is of her. Four of the other fourteen beauties are shown also. Upper left, Miss Gertrude Olmstead. Lower left, the painting he made of Miss Harriet Canne. Upper right, Miss June Marlowe. Lower right, Mrs. L. C. Liggett.

Down To Business

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The world, after a long season of war and the consequences of war, is slowly getting down to business.

The Dawes plan in Europe means simply that Europe is turning from politics to business.

The inner meaning of the election in the United States and in Great Britain was that the people are tired of politics, and want to return to business.

The permanently interesting occupation of most of the people is making a living, and while occasionally they may enjoy a vacation and indulge in fireworks, after awhile they want to get back to their steady job.

America stands, most of all, for a business nation, a people who are engaged in business. They may be in politics temporarily and as a side issue, but their main occupation is making a living, and they will not tolerate anything very long which interferes with it.

Man is so constituted that when he works he makes much more than is necessary to support himself.

Without interference from politics this surplus would accumulate rapidly. Peace simply means that statesmanship and diplomacy and such like things are not to interfere with business.

Given an era of comparative peace—that is, an era in which government lets business alone—it does not take long for any country to get on its feet.

Recently both Poland and Italy have given positive demonstration of their endeavor to pay their debt to the United States.

The first thing necessary for financial stability is to prove that you are honest. One difficulty the Russians have now in making a loan is that they repudiated former loans.

A man or a nation cannot get away from the record.

Who's Who

Hsuan Tung, "Son of Heaven," remains an outcast from his native land of China—an exile in Japan. As little Pu Yi, 2 years old, he ascended the Chinese throne in 1908. Four years later, with the advent of the republic, he abdicated, and since then has been allowed to live in retirement in the palace of his fathers.

In December, 1923, he married a daughter of Jung Yuan, a Manchurian noble, and, learning that western monarchs used personal names, he chose "Henry" for himself and "Elizabeth" for his wife. A few years ago he angered the imperial dowagers by having his queue cut off. On November 5 soldiers broke into his retreat, demanding that he leave the palace, give up title and privileges and accept reduction of his annual income from $4,000,000 to $500,000. The influence of Sun Yat Sen and the Bolshevik Ambassador Karakhan, have been credited with the action.

Hsuan Tung moved, with the empress and second consort, to the house of his father, Prince Chun. His English tutor, R. F. Johnston, was refused admittance. The new Chinese government granted Hsuan Tung his freedom, and his first act was to fly from the empire—a refugee.

Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across)

Word 1 what the little girl has put on her hat.

Word 4 a boy's name.

Word 5 the missing word in this sentence: "Hurry, — You will be late for school."

Word 7 what all children like to hear.

(Running Down)

Word 1 to iron or squeeze.

Word 2 the opposite of down.

Word 3 when you should go to bed.

Word 6 it appears in this sentence: "I like to work on the crossword puzzles in this paper."

Two Traffic Accidents Occur Over Week-End

Mrs. W. Sam Clark of 338 South Laguna avenue, Los Angeles, was taken to the Glendale hospital Sunday morning, following injuries received when the car driven by her husband collided with a car driven by E. M. Paap of 1479 East Wilson avenue. She was treated for lacerations of the forehead and nose, and was later removed to her home, where her condition is reported not to be serious. The accident occurred at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, at the intersection of East Broadway and Verdugo road.

George H. Moore, of 221 West Elk avenue suffered minor bruises at 6 o'clock Sunday night, when his car collided with a car driven by W. J. Sammons of 932 Fairfax street, Hollywood, according to a report filed at Glendale police headquarters. No one was seriously injured.

Despite his 82 years, M. Clemenceau, ex-premier of France, has just built a new sea wall to protect his garden at his home at Vendee, France.

Whitney Boys' Chorus Gives Church Concert

Reports from Glendale Presbyterian church state that the auditorium was filled for the program given Sunday night by the Whitney Boys' chorus on the first anniversary of the congregation in the new building. Included in the concert were several oratorio numbers. The boys directed the devotional hour, one of them giving a history of the chorus. Because of vacation time several of the boys were absent. The entire chorus is to appear in Glendale for a future concert.

Los Angeles Singers To Present Cantata

Christmas music by the choir of the Normandie avenue Methodist church, Los Angeles, is to be heard next Sunday night at Tropic Presbyterian church. The singers will present the Christmas cantata they gave at their church last night. Several of the Tropic church singers took part in the choral work.

Annual Reports Given By Latter-Day Saints

Services at the Latter Day Saints church meeting at the Knights of Pythias hall, South Brand boulevard and Park avenue, last night were in charge of the Women's Relief society of the church. Reports of the year's work were given. Mrs. Viola D. McIntyre, president of the society, reported on the work and department work was reported by Mrs. Fay Wood, Mrs. Beatrice Lloyd, Mrs. Margaret Farnsworth and Mrs. Pearl Heilmiller. The meeting of the social service department will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Knights of Pythias hall.

J. E. Phillips Is at Glendale Sanitarium

J. E. Phillips of 137 North Orange street, proprietor of the Jewel City Undertaking Co., is a patient at the Glendale sanitarium, suffering with a severe cold. He will remain at the institution for several days.

CHURCHES TO WATCH OLD YEAR OUT

All Denominations Prepare To Celebrate Feast Of Father Time

Glendale church people will watch passing of the old year and welcome the new year with services Wednesday night and Thursday.

At Central Christian church the annual church meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. There will be reports of all departments, election of officers, roll call of members, and reception held for the 165 new members received during the past year. An informal hour with refreshments will precede the watch service just before midnight.

A union watch service will be held at the First Methodist church on North Kenwood street. The regular mid-week service will begin at 7:30 o'clock. At 9:30 o'clock the congregations of Glendale Presbyterian, First Congregational, First Baptist and Central Christian churches have been invited to join with the Methodists in a watch service.

Broadway Methodist church members and friends will have a communion dinner at 6 o'clock Wednesday night. This will be followed by an hour of Bible study under Rev. M. M. Johnson. Later there will be a short prayer meeting, and a social hour. A devotional watch night service will be held shortly before midnight.

The Gospel Turntable is to hold the annual church meeting Wednesday night. This will be followed by a watch service. Rev. H. C. Mullen announces that a prayer meeting will be held from 8 to 9 o'clock Wednesday night at Pacific Avenue Methodist church. Later there will be a social hour, refreshments and a program of music and reading. At midnight the Lord's Supper will be observed with fitting message from Mr. Mullen, illustrated with famous sacred paintings.

St. Mark's Episcopal church is to have a communion service at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Torchia's Brother Not Marked for Explosion

Torchia in a Christmas package. The package arrived in Los Angeles Saturday and an attempt was made to deliver it. Because of his fears when he found no intimation was given on the wrapper as to the sender, and because he was expecting no such shipment at his drug store, Torchia declined to accept it. Charges against the packages amounted to $28, it was stated.

A search of the Torchia drug store after it had been reported that prowlers had been seen by neighbors, disclosed that nothing was missing, although no trace of a bomb could be located. Captain William Bright, head of the sheriff's homicide squad and Deputy Sheriff Stensland and Wier, who conducted the search, ascertained that entrance to the store gained by means of a pass key. The three men entered the store about four o'clock Sunday morning, it was said, shortly after the raid had been conducted by the dry officers on a pool hall immediately across the street.

Mr. Torchia told authorities today he is convinced the same gang that sent the bomb to his brother are now plotting to make him their next victim. He expressed his firm belief that the men who entered his store were bent on planting a bomb and would have done so had not neighbors started an investigation.

Authorities have virtually abandoned the theory that Ernest Torchia was the victim of a black-hand plot. It was pointed out by detectives well informed in the customs and practices of avenging Italian societies, that the victims always receive the "death sign" before the actual attempt is made upon their lives. Although Torchia was the recipient of a number of threats, it is pointed out none of them could be construed as the "death sign" of the Mafia, Camorra or Mano Nero, the three dreaded Italian societies.

Torchia Has Chance With the abandonment of the black-hand theory, detectives took up the case in the belief that both Ernest and Louis Torchia may have been sentenced to death by a run-running gang in San Francisco. Revenge against the attorney and his family because of Torchia's activities as counsel in cases involving bootleggers and run-runners, might have been the motive behind the mailing of the Christmas bomb and other mysterious activities thought to be attempts at killing the Torchia family.

At the Glendale hospital, where Ernest Torchia lies, wavering between life and death as a result of the terrible explosion at his Casa Verdugo home on Christmas morning, reports were that the bomb victim was slightly improved today. He has just an even chance for recovery now, it was declared by Dr. H. R. Boyer and others who are attending to the case. His hearing is improving slightly, it was announced at the hospital, and unless complications set in, physicians believe he will live.

Many debutantes of London have been growing their hair between seasons in order to comply with the new styles that require long tresses.

COMMUNITY LOYALTY—COMMUNITY LOYALTY—COMMUNITY LOYALTY—COMMUNITY SERVICE—COMMUNITY SERVICE—COMMUNITY LOYALTY—COMMUNITY LOYALTY—COMMUNITY LOYALTY

Glendale's homes, industries and business all contribute to growth

COMMUNITY CO-OPERATION

Glendale has become popular because it is an all 'round city

Realizing the Great Community Development Truth that a City Grows exactly as its Business and Merchandising Institutions Grow, these firms have given their hearty endorsement to the movement for co-operation between Glendale merchants and Glendale consumers

Advertisers Ask Your Help In Promoting A Greater Glendale

Had Oliver Goldsmith lived in Glendale he would have said, "Such the Glendalians boast, where'er we roam—His first, best city ever is at home."

And Glendale has thousands of loyal citizens who subscribe to this sentiment even though they may not express it in words. No matter where the business trip or the pleasure jaunt takes us we are always "glad to get back to Glendale."

And why is this? It was lately remarked that Glendale has attracted such a splendid, loyal class of people because Glendale is an all 'round city.

Our slogan has long been, "A city of homes." Our location, our scenic surroundings, our schools, churches and our people all contribute the necessary elements to make Glendale a real city of homes. And we have splendid homes and fine, cultured citizens. But that is not all. We have industries and we have business. Truly Glendale might be known as an all 'round city. People come here because they have no reason for not coming. We have all the things that make life worth while.

Our business center has been compared favorably with the finest shopping district in our big, neighboring city. No wonder Glendalians are loyal since their city offers them so many advantages. No wonder they are showing their appreciation to the merchants and the professional men who have built and are building so well that there is now no possible excuse for going out of town to buy any necessity or luxury or for any professional service or advice.

Glendale women are proud to wear clothes bought in Glendale and they are proud to be seen buying in Glendale stores. This high commercial standing has been and is a source of great fortune to Glendale. An inferior business organization is a handicap that any city must overcome before it can grow.

Glendale merchants and citizens have brought about this desirable condition. The advertisers on this page are asking your help to maintain and promote our commercial supremacy.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Dec. 29.—H. G. Warren has been elected president of the local division, Los Angeles Realty board, for the ensuing year. Other officers elected for 1925 are O. F. Kroehle, vice-president; D. G. Hildebrand, secretary; K. W. Hunt was re-elected governor, representing the Eagle Rock division on the Los Angeles board of governors.

A committee of five, with O. F. Kroehle as chairman, was appointed to make arrangements for the annual banquet of the Eagle Rock division which will be held on January 8. An elaborate function is being planned and prominent representatives of other real estate boards will be invited and will give short talks on the occasion when the official installation of the new board for the coming year will also take place. A reward of $100 is offered by Sylvester Wilder for the arrest of the person who cut from his yard at Hill drive and Maywood avenue, supposedly as a Christmas tree, the valuable cedar deodora he had growing there, known to botanists as one of the rarest of all the cedars. It is easily distinguished from the ordinary Christmas tree by its bluish color and remarkable symmetry, its owner states.

The Boy Scouts of Eagle Rock, in charge of Don Bradford, Scout Master, were given a Christmas party at the Bradford home. Everybody enjoyed the good things provided, and the boys voted it the most enjoyable party they had attended for a long time.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Wood of El Rio avenue had a family dinner on Christmas day. Mr. and Mrs. H. Jarvis, the latter being their daughter; Miss Dorothy Jarvis, their granddaughter, and Paul Wood, their grandson, were present.

Harry Titus of Topeka, Kan., has arrived in Eagle Rock by auto and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sans 5150 Caspar avenue during his stay.

SUNLAND NOTES
SUNLAND, Dec. 29.—Modification of a zoning ordinance recently passed by the county Board of Supervisors will be sought by the Valley Center Improvement League. The ordinance prohibits many desirable businesses in practically the entire Tujunga-Sunland territory. A committee was ordered appointed to take the necessary steps for securing an amendment to the measure.

Incorporation of a city of the sixth class seems to be in popular favor, according to reports made to the league. Sixteen out of twenty are reported in favor of the legislation, according to the league. Earl Neumire has been conducting investigations to determine the sentiment on this subject. Today is the date set for a hearing by the county supervisors, when the petitions recently circulated and signed by Sunland residents, asking for the calling of an election on incorporation, will be presented to the officials.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Dec. 29.—The city trustees have accepted the gift of a lot in the Marygold tract as a site for a fire station. The lot is located at the corner of Magnolia avenue and Parrish place. The fire station which now serves that part of the city is located at the city pumping station near the corner of Main street and Magnolia avenue.

No attempt will be made to improve the property with a fire station at the present time, states Mayor J. C. Crawford. Later, a substantial building will be erected there by the city.

For the third time, proceedings for the improvement of Third street have halted by the city trustees, and for the fourth time the proceedings have been resumed, by asking the city clerk to advertise anew for bids. The city engineers had recommended that the contract be awarded to Mr. Gregg but the trustees thought there was some legal question as to his status, so they decided to be on the safe side and rejected all bids.

A resolution was passed at the meeting of the trustees last night calling for an election to be held Monday, February 2, to decide whether or not a certain territory lying mostly in the mountains north and west of the city shall be annexed to the city of Burbank. The tract includes Stough park, which is already owned by the city.

Chief John H. Long of the police department has turned over to Mrs. May Clarke $79.25, which together with $40 already received by Mrs. Clarke, represented the receipts from the charity ball recently given by the police department. The money will be used by Mrs. Clarke in her philanthropic work as a representative of the Women's club.

LIFE'S QUESTION IS SERMON TOPIC

Rev. W. E. Edmonds Speaks At Presbyterian Church On Coming Year

Speaking on the subject, "A Tale That Is Told," as found in Psalm 90, verse 9, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, on Sunday morning brought a retrospective message that went home to the hearts of his hearers. He said in part:

"One is only a fragmentary sort of a man who can contemplate entering upon a new year without feeling the throbbing of a high ambition to do and to be the best that is possible. The past year's record being well closed, one should wish to excel it, if he has abiding in him, eternal life."

"The question is, what is life? Life is the period of existence between birth and death according to the dictionary; but it is more than that. It is the communion of the soul with God, the communion of the soul with the eternal world, the communion of the soul with the eternal life. Life is a definite combination of heterogeneous changes simultaneous and successive in correspondence with external co-existence and sequences. Maybe he knows what it means. Walter Raleigh from his cell in London Tower, calls life a journey. With staff and scrip, thus I make my pilgrimage." George Herbert terms life a summer day; the Pagan dreamers, "Life is the shadow of a dream," a "storm at sea," and again, "men rise like bubbles—a river, a spring or a sea."

"But the eternal word says, 'His days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle' and compares him to 'vapors, a shadow, or the grass that is withered.' Such is life today, tomorrow and the day after, the end. Our position should be, calm and grateful spirit of yielding to His divine purpose. With the text in mind, we shall see some of His purposes."

World Is Small
"Last, the world was never meant to be the eternal abode of the immortal man. The house is too little, the tenant too great. Man is made in the image of God with powers too great for words to express. They tell us the world is only 25,000 miles in circumference; why, the meanest man who walks upon its surface can feel it with his thought in an twinkling of an eye. It is inconceivable to think that God would make man a mere machine, and close his existence at the terminal called death. No man is not for this world alone, nor is it for the world alone for man. It is an inn where travelers bask, then pass away."

"Reason is the physical limitation of man; his machinery wears out. The Book of Ecclesiastes gives a striking picture of decay: 'The keepers of the house shall tremble and exist; men bow themselves; those that look out of the windows are darkened; the doors shut in the street and all the daughters of music be laid low; the grasshopper shall be a burden and desires shall fail, for because man goeth to his long by the way?'"

Mrs. Carroll Cook Is Removed to Own Home

Mrs. Carroll Cook of 220 1/2 North Cedar street fainted on East Broadway near the corner of Isabel street at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. She was taken to the Glendale Research hospital, where she regained consciousness. Later she was removed to her home, where it is reported her condition is not serious.

Endowment Quota Is Raised In Short Time

Rev. H. C. Mullen, pastor of Pacific Avenue Methodist church, announces that in fifteen minutes Sunday morning his congregation had raised more than its quota for the half-million of the Conference Claimants' endowment.

"Who could wish to live here forever?"

"The heart also wears out. Life's outset puts forth its tendrils clasping a friend here and there, a beloved one—but, as the years advance, these are sundered one by one. In the art gallery of the Columbia Exposition was a picture that seemed to be realized in every life—an old man sitting with his face bowed between his wrinkled hands. On the bed near by is lying a form, his wife, dead, and below is just one word 'Alone.' With the light of life gone out, surely it is time to go."

Place Is Prepared
"Then another reason for our belief in immortality is that there is a place prepared in a better world for us. 'In My Father's House,' said Jesus, 'are many homes. I go to prepare a place for you. Now are we the Sons of God.' Death is the commencement, the gate-way into a larger and more real world of affairs—a promotion to a higher task. We're going home."

"The solemn thought we emphasize at the threshold of the New Year is this: make the most of your opportunities for preparation for the larger life. The great and all-absorbing question, beside which all others sink into insignificance, is 'Is it well with my soul?' All hope of eternity hangs upon a positive answer. In all earnestness, I ask you this, is it well with thy soul? Is the sin question settled? And there is just one way of settling it, through riches of grace by Christ Jesus. Then the next step is to get used to service. Our shibboleth must be faithfulness, following His example who went about doing good. 'For we spend our years as a tale that is told.'"

"The year is before us, an untwinkling of an eye. It is inconceivable to think that God would make man a mere machine, and close his existence at the terminal called death. No man is not for this world alone, nor is it for the world alone for man. It is an inn where travelers bask, then pass away."

"Reason is the physical limitation of man; his machinery wears out. The Book of Ecclesiastes gives a striking picture of decay: 'The keepers of the house shall tremble and exist; men bow themselves; those that look out of the windows are darkened; the doors shut in the street and all the daughters of music be laid low; the grasshopper shall be a burden and desires shall fail, for because man goeth to his long by the way?'"

"I pray for you a New Year full of God's peace; a clear outlook toward the heavenly hills; a year of simple faith, a year of sweet communion like that wonderful walk to Emmaus when His disciples said 'Did not our hearts burn within us as He walked with us because man goeth to his long by the way?'"

COLD WEATHER SUGGESTIONS

CHAPPED LIPS
There is nothing more distressing to see, or uncomfortable to feel, than chapped lips, especially when they go on to the stage of swelling, cracking and bleeding.

These conditions are very easily prevented by the application of a white cold-cream lip stick. These lip sticks are inexpensive—you can get them for from 15 to 25 cents apiece—and they are usually made of a heavy cream with a little glycerine. When applied, a thin colorless coating is left on the lips which is a protection against the cold air. Those who are troubled with sensitive lips should never be without one of these lip sticks. The ordinary cold cream will not serve because it is too thin, rubs off too easily and is impractical to carry.

Chronically cracked lips should not be considered lightly because in the later years, when the so-called cancer begins, a crack or sore on the lip if allowed to go on indefinitely, may be the basis for a cancerous growth. Men are just as susceptible to chapped lips as women and they should not scorn to have a lip stick of this nature with them constantly. A good coating should be applied before going out of doors and if out for any length of time another coating should be applied.

CHAPPED HANDS

There is nothing better for chapped hands than glycerine, but it must be greatly diluted to be healing. The reason some find that glycerine does not agree with their skins is that they use it too strong. Three-quarters water and sometimes a greater dilution than this should be used.

A practical way to use glycerine is to buy it diluted, pour a few drops into the palm of the hand and then add about three or four times as much water and mix it as you rub it on the hands. Those who have their hands in water a good deal should have a bottle of glycerine handy and use it every time the hands are washed.

This glycerine solution, with a drop or two of carbolio acid to the ounce, is a good healing solution for those who are troubled with scaly and itchy skin.

CHILBLAIN

Chilblain or frost bite. Dermatitis Congelationis, is the result of severe cold on portions of the skin. It is usually found that persons who suffer from chilblain are anemic and have sluggish circulation. There is this reaction in the tissues because the cold unduly contracts the poorly supplied blood vessels and the skin does not get its nourishment.

TREATMENT

As in other skin disorders which are local manifestations of general under-parness of the system, obviously the thing to do is to take measures to get to par in health. Those who are predisposed to chilblain and frost bite should wear woolen coverings on the hands, feet, and ears, if necessary. Absolute cleanliness with thorough drying after washing, especially of the feet, is very important. Sometimes stimulating ointments containing camphor, iodine, ichthyol, or carbolio acid, may be used.

Kellogg recommends the alternate hot and cold foot bath as the best remedy for chilblain. The hot water should be as hot as can be borne, and the cold as cold as can be obtained. Dip the feet for 30 seconds into the hot water and then for 15 seconds into the cold. Dip them alternately into the hot and cold water for 12 times and repeat this treatment twice daily.

Guests on Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. William Huber of 334 West Park avenue, were dinner hosts Sunday. It was a holiday dinner, appointments being in the Christmas colors. Streamers of red and green crepe paper were used. A red basket of poinsettias was the table centerpiece. Smaller favor baskets were at the places. The Christmas tree added a colorful touch. Members of the dinner company were Mr. and Mrs. James Kier and daughter Marilyn, of Pomona; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kier and daughter, Marjorie Jean, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Harry Blake, William Ehea, Mr. and Mrs. Huber and children, Billy, Richard, and Karl. The afternoon was spent informally.

Holiday Reunion

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Morrow of 515 West Burchett street was the setting Sunday for a Christmas reunion of a company of fourteen people. The piece de resistance of the dinner was roasted pig. Included in the company present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Morrow and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morrow and family, of Los Angeles; Emery Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Towson and Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Morrow.

Musical Affair

Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Sherman of 1217 East Lexington drive were hosts Saturday night at a musical, entertaining members of the Lonic court, Order of Amaranth, and a group of other friends. Their nephew, Glen Hallik, gave violin numbers, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Mottern. Miss Mottern, G. H. Phelps, Mrs. C. C. Coghlin, Nana King Custer and D. Ripley Jackson entertained with vocal numbers, and Mrs. Phelps with piano selections.

Church Wedding

Jesse Edmund Smith of Glendale and Miss Elsie Louise Doeberle of Newman Lake, Wash., were married Sunday morning, December 28, 1924, following the morning service at the First Congregational church, North Central and West Wilson avenues. Rev. Charles M. Calderwood read the bridal service. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are to reside in Glendale.

Give Card Party

Plans for the five hundred card party which will be given tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Odd Fellows' hall by the Past Noble Grands' association of the Rebekah lodge are complete. A cordial invitation is extended to Rebekahs, Odd Fellows and their friends to attend the affair.

Informal Affair

Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Westphal were special guests last night when Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Armstrong entertained a company of graduate nurses at their home, 1803 Glenoaks boulevard. Musical numbers were given. Mrs. Westphal entertaining with vocal solos.

Hold Inspection

A special meeting of chapter D. J. P. E. O. will be held tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Emma G. Leyhe, of 129 South Adams street. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock, followed by inspection.

Short Ribs of Beef en Casserole

Buy three pounds of short ribs. Brown these in your frying pan in five tablespoons of beef drippings, at the same time frying six large peeled and sliced onions in the fat. Now put in the bottom of a casserole (or any baking dish) a layer of chopped raw carrot, uncooked brown rice, canned tomatoes and a pinch of salt and pepper; place the ribs of beef on this, then add more of the carrot, rice, tomatoes and seasonings. Cover with boiling water, put on cover, and bake four hours in a slow oven adding more water if necessary. All should be merely moist when done, not like a stew. Serve very hot.

Baked Bean Soup

Put two cups of cold baked beans into a saucepan with one-half can of tomatoes, two large onions peeled and cut small and five cups of water. Simmer all for one-half hour then thicken with three tablespoons of flour creamed with two tablespoons of butter. Turn the soup through a sieve and serve very hot.

Apple Sauce Cake

Dissolve one teaspoon of soda in one-fourth cup of hot water and turn this into one cup of sour apple sauce.

Children's Party

Mrs. Max Lynn Green arranged the annual children's party of Beta Phi sorority alumni of the University of Southern California, given Saturday at Oakmont Country club. A company of mothers and kiddies and other sorority members spent the afternoon at the club. A short meeting of the alumni was held. The children found much pleasure around the Christmas tree and in stories and music. At a late hour tea was served, with Misses Flora Cronmiller and Josephine Chambers pouring. There were present Mrs. Effie Mance and son, Stephenson, Mrs. Helen Humphrey Hincley and daughter, Virginia, Miss Rosena Chambers, Miss Gertrude Mallory, Mrs. H. E. Burmeister, Miss Laura Burmeister, Mrs. Frances Mallory Nickerson and children, Bobby and Betty, Miss Pearl Macloskey, Miss Florence Macloskey, Mrs. Fay Crippen and children, Julia, Katherine and Wilma, Miss Agnes Wood, Miss Esther Crouch, Miss Ruth Watson, Mrs. Doris Dunn Webster and son, Clinton, Miss Julia McCorkle, Mrs. Roland McCorkle Logan and daughter, Roland, Mrs. Lois Keener Thome, Mrs. Claribel Johnson, Miss Ruth Hopkins, Mrs. Max Lynn Green and children, Barbara, Patricia and Max, Jr.

Receive Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones and daughter, Miss Lillian Winifred Jones, are opening their foothill home, "Bel-Air," from 4 to 7 o'clock Saturday afternoon for a reception and tea. Receiving with the hosts will be Colonel and Mrs. Oliver F. Hershman and Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. M. Ewell Smith. Assisting will be Mrs. Isadore B. Dockweiler, Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, Mrs. Gertrude Ross, Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Mrs. Benjamin F. Bledsoe, Mrs. Joseph J. Carter, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. Lucius A. Phillips, Mrs. William Elmer Evans, Mrs. Fred Walter Pig, Mrs. Madison J. Keeney, Mrs. Douglas Longyear, Mrs. George Benjamin Hull, Mrs. Myron Etienne, Mrs. Harold O'Rourke, Mrs. Albert Hays, Miss Evelyn Longyear and Miss Katherine Keeney.

Old Friends Meet

Mrs. J. N. McGillis of 1003 East Lomita avenue had a pleasant surprise last week, when she met Rev. Fred St. Clair, who is a son of a former school teacher of hers in Wadley, Ga. He was also a chum of Mrs. McGillis' brother, S. F. Manson of 456 West Dryden street, when they lived in Wadley. Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGillis entertained at a dinner party for Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Manson and Mr. St. Clair. The evening was spent in reminiscences. Mr. Manson brought his fiddle and entertained with the old cornfield melodies.

Wed in Glendale

Miss Marie Dent Maddox and Stanley Frederick Vogt, both of Eagle Rock, were married Saturday night, December 27, 1924 at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist church parsonage. Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor of the Baptist church officiated, performing the ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Vogt will make their home in Eagle Rock.

Holiday Wedding

The wedding of Miss Donna M. Davis and James Malcolm Britton, both of Glendale, took place Christmas morning, December 25, 1924, at 10 o'clock, at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Frances Britton, 1416 Rock Glen venue. Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ring ceremony. Immediate relatives of the couple and friends were present. The bride wore a brown silk dress. Miss Flora Freicht of Glendale and Lionel Britton, a brother of Mr. Britton, were the attendants. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served and Mr. and Mrs. Britton departed for a honeymoon trip to San Diego. Mrs. Britton is the daughter of Mrs. Amy Davis of 707 East Orange Grove avenue, and has been employed as bookkeeper for the Newton Electric company. Mr. and Mrs. Britton will be at home to their friends after January 1 at 208 West Acacia avenue. Mr. Britton is in charge of the service department for the Newton Electric company. Many beautiful and useful wedding gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Britton, among them being an electrical coffee percolator set from the Newton Electric company, 154 South Brand boulevard.

Hosts at Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. John White Garver of 112 West Everett street were bridge hosts Saturday night. High scores were won by Fred Goodfellow and Mrs. L. E. Gates. Second prizes were awarded to C. H. Pratt and Mrs. Ted Allen. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goodfellow, of Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Twining of Burbank; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gates, Mrs. and Mrs. C. H. Pratt, of Long Beach.

Class Will Meet

The regular meeting of the Princess class of St. Mark's Episcopal church will be held with a dinner served at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the Guild hall.

DRY SHAMPOOS

The dry shampoo is the most awkward one to manage for powder preparations are apt to leave the hair white and mussy and liquid ones are often too drying. There are times when the hair must be made fluffy and when a regular soap and water shampoo cannot be indulged in.

However, if a cold interferes with the hair being washed in the usual way, this hint might help. Pin all the hair into a knot on top of the head except a fringe about an inch wide around the edges of the scalp. Put some hot water in a basin and make a thick lather of good soap suds, preferably castile. Wrap a flannel out in this and rub it over the loose and hanging hair and into the inch of scalp that is being washed. Let the loose hair hang in the water too and wash it thoroughly. Rinse, using the flannel to squeeze water over it. Rub as dry as possible with a warm towel, holding the hair close to the head. Then proceed to the great number received in a basin and make a thick lather of good soap suds, preferably castile. The Wrath To Come

CHAPTER VI

"With great interest and some amusement," was the smiling reply. "Am I really to accept the account of the happenings on board your yacht as being authentic?"

"They are not even exaggerated, sir," Grant assured his auditor earnestly. "If I had not kept Funderstrom out all that night, Lord Yeovil's motion would have been lost."

"I must accept your word, of course. On the other hand you must admit that the whole thing reads like a piece of opera bouffe. Before we leave this subject, Mr. Slattery, I should like to ask you one more question. You have spoken of the hostile intentions of Japan and Germany against this country. Have you ever come to any conclusion as to the manner in which this hostility was to be displayed?"

"Sir," Grant replied, "I am a wealthy man, so this is of no moment, but I have spent a hundred thousand dollars trying to get hold of a perfectly simple document which I know to be in existence. There is an elaborate scheme agreed to by Japan and Germany, which is intended to strike at the very heart of our existence, and for which I have the strongest reasons for believing that Mr. Cornelius Blunn is responsible. There are two people from whom I hope to obtain it. Both have, so far, disappointed me. Nevertheless I shall get it some day. As regards the part of the conspiracy dealing with direct warfare, that, without a doubt, is to be conducted by sea."

"The German fleet coming from eastwards to the Atlantic seaboard, the Japanese fleet to San Francisco. I might point out, sir, that the American fleet, honorably kept within the Limitation of Armaments Statutes, would be utterly unequal to dealing with both adversaries arriving from opposite directions."

"You drive me to the conclusion, Mr. Slattery, that I am devoid of imagination," his host observed, smiling. "I cannot conceive the spectacle of those two fleets approaching our shores with a hostile purpose. You need not take it as a cause for alarm that I am unable to embrace your theory. So far as you are concerned, I am with you on the practical side of the matter. My influence will be directed towards securing an acceptance of Lord Yeovil's proposition."

Grant rose to his feet. His companion laid a detaining hand upon his shoulder.

"My wife desires that you give as the pleasure of lunching with us," he said. "Her mother and yours were friends, as you may know. And I, myself, was at Harvard with your uncle. I knew your father, too, although he graduated a year or two before me. You are, I hope, free?"

"I shall be honored," Grant acceded.

Luncheon was an informal meal. A few officials were present, two ladies who were distant relatives of the host, a recent arrival amongst the diplomats and the presiding genius of the establishment took Grant under her special protection.

"I'm not going to pretend to be tactful, Mr. Slattery," she declared, "because you know that Gertrude's mother and I were great friends, and I was, at one time, very fond of Gertrude. I think I was one of the first to notice her friendship with Otto von Diss, and certainly one of the first to disapprove of it. I'm a terrible gossip, and I read all the society papers. So, of course, I know that you have been meeting at Monte Carlo. Tell me, has she changed?"

"She is as beautiful as ever," Grant said, "but she has certainly changed. She has gained a great deal, and I think lost something."

"She can't possibly be still in love with that ridiculous little husband of hers."

Grant was silent for a moment. Under ordinary circumstances he felt that his hostess' lack of regard for her husband's friend, was really the truest form of tact. But the things she did not know were burning in his brain.

"I did not see a great deal of Gertrude in Monte Carlo," he confessed. "Her husband arrived unexpectedly, and I think that he is of a very jealous temperament."

"His hostess turned enquiringly towards Grant.

"I heard the same rumor," the latter remarked, "but I scarcely think that it can be true. I enquired in New York, but no one there knew anything about her. At the same time it is certainly a fact, as I learned this morning, that her husband's friend, Cornelius Blunn, who was with us all at Monte Carlo, landed in New York two days ago. The

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"I Love You" will open for its second week at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre on Wednesday night, announces Mrs. Florence Dobinson. The play is by William Le Baron and tells the story of a wealthy man, weary of the conventional, who horrifies the guests with the statement that there is no such thing as real love, and makes a wager with one of them that under the right environment any two people can be made to fall in love. In the working out of the scheme is a series of convulsing situations.

As Jimmie Farnsworth, Joseph McManus, who is the featured player, gives the finest kind of a performance, looks the part of the gentlemanly aristocrat he portrays, and keeps the right tempo until the final curtain. His sofa scene with Louise is a scream. William H. Stephens as Brooks, the butler, whose cynical and cynical mind is a source of bewilderment to the others, is a treat. Mary Isabelle Alpaugh as Ruth, Jimmie's fiancée, whose thoughts of love are far different than Jimmie's, helps to keep the audience in a merry mood.

Von Dissee may have come with him."

Grant's host frowned for a moment.

"Blunn seems to have a great many friends in this country," he observed. "He appears to spend half his time going back and forth."

"His present visit seems to have been to some purpose," Grant declared a little bitterly. "In what respect?"

Grant was, for a moment, taken aback.

"You know about Mr. Cornelius Blunn's purchase, sir," he ventured.

"I've heard nothing," was the somewhat impatient reply.

"I am sure I beg your pardon, sir. It would have been my first item of news, but I never imagined that Gordon Marsham would have acted without giving you notice."

"What's Gordon Marsham got to do with it?"

"Just this much, sir," Grant pointed out. "He has sold the New York to Cornelius Blunn. A man named Pottinger is the new editor. Stoneham's article which should have appeared this morn-

THE GATEWAY

Dorothy Mackaill, featured player in Sol Lesser's Principal Pictures photoplay, "The Mine With the Iron Door," which is showing today and Tuesday, as the main attraction at the Gateway Theatre, claims to have established the long-distance hunger record for film actresses.

Exhausted from her long stay and hard work at the little village of Oracle, near Tucson, Arizona, where "The Mine With the Iron Door" was filmed on the exact spots and among the exact scenes described by Harold Bell Wright in his novel of the same name, Miss Mackaill returned to her home in Hollywood. She went to bed at three in the afternoon, after receiving instructions to report at the studio at seven the next morning. Sleepings to the last minute she rushed to the studio to find the company waiting for her to go out on location. This meant not a bite of breakfast.

At noon Miss Mackaill had a business appointment in Los Angeles. She kept it and went without lunch. Back to the studio again and to work. Between two scenes she gulped a glass of milk. In the evening she had an engagement for a fitting for a new gown, after which she had to dash back to the studio for night scenes. At midnight this work was finished, and then the popular young star lost no time in getting to the nearest restaurant. "Thirty-two hours without food is quite a record for a perfectly healthy film actress," was her comment.

ing, welcoming the invitation from the Pack, was torn into small pieces."

Grant's host was more perturbed than he had been during the whole of the morning.

"Marsham's action," he declared, "is absolutely unbelievable. He knows perfectly well that the New York has become almost the mouthpiece of the government. It was practically a subsidized journal. To dispose of it secretly, just now, to a German-American, without even advising us, is an amazing proceeding. You are sure that you are not misinformed, Mr. Slattery?"

UNCLE WIGGLY AND PEETIE'S PLASTER

Peetie Bow Wow, the little puppy dog boy, was very ill. Dr. Possum had been called in to see him, a few days after Christmas. Peetie was in the straw bed at the kennel house, where he lived with his father and mother and his brother Jackie.

"Where do you feel the worst, Peetie?" asked Dr. Possum.

"In my back," answered the puppy chap.

"Perhaps you slipped and fell on your back when you were throwing snowballs on roller skates," said Dr. Possum.

Peetie laughed, for laughter is as good as medicine, sometimes.

"No, I didn't hurt my back that way," whined Peetie.

"I think he ate too much Christmas candy," spoke Mrs. Bow Wow.

"Oh, indeed? How about that, Peetie?" asked Dr. Possum, solemnly.

"I—now—I guess so," said Peetie, slowly. "Oh, how my back hurts! I'll never do it again!"

"Uh! Well, I'll give you a stickum plaster to put on your back," said Dr. Possum, "and it will make you feel better in a little while."

"Maybe you'd better give me two pasters, Dr. Possum," sighed Peetie. "Two pasters will make me get well quicker than one plaster, I should think."

Dr. Possum laughed, for he was very jolly, and left two stickum pasters for the doggie boy, saying:

"I think one plaster will be enough for you though, Peetie."

After the animal doctor had gone, Mrs. Bow Wow put one of the stickum pasters on Peetie's back and the other plaster she laid aside to be used later, if need be.

but the plaster didn't seem to make Peetie get well very quickly. He certainly had eaten a great deal of Christmas candy—much more than was good for him. He cried, he whined, he barked and he growled, until, at last, his mother said:

"I'm going to send for Uncle Wiggly. He isn't a doctor, but maybe he can make you feel better, Peetie."

"Oh, yes, please tell Uncle Wiggly to come and tell me a story," begged Peetie. And when the bunny rabbit gentleman hopped over across the fields to the dog kennel house, twinkling his pink nose, Peetie felt better just by looking at Mr. Longears.

"I'll tell you a story," said Uncle Wiggly. "That will make you forget the pain in your back." So he began: "Once upon a time," and he told the story until he got to the part where he said: "All of a sudden!"

And just as Uncle Wiggly said "all of a sudden," into the room where Peetie lay ill in bed bounded the Bob Cat with his silly little tail. Mrs. Bow Wow had gone to the store when Uncle Wiggly came in, and she had left the door open for the Bob Cat, though not meaning to.

"All of a sudden—that means me! I'm here all of a sudden!" howled the Bob Cat, "and I'm going to nibble ears!"

Uncle Wiggly didn't know what to do, but Peetie popped out of bed and, catching up the second stickum plaster from the bureau, he clapped it over the mouth of the Bob Cat.

HONOR WARRIORS AT GRID BANQUET

Either Walter Eckersall or Elmer Henderson to Be
Main Speaker

Either Walter Eckersall or "Gloomy Gus" Henderson will be the main speaker at the dinner in honor of Glendale football teams, to be given under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and service clubs, on January 6. If Eckersall, who will be one of the officials in the game at Pasadena on New Year's day, is in Southern California on January 6, he will be asked to make the main talk. In the event that the great football writer is not available, Coach Henderson of U. S. C. will be invited to address the Glendale gridiron warriors.

The banquet in honor of the footballers will take place at 6 o'clock at the Christian church, Colorado and Louise streets. More than 300 will attend the affair, it is anticipated, including members of all three high school football teams and the coaching staff. The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and officials of service clubs of the city will be hosts to the boys on the gala occasion, when the splendid showings of the three local teams during the past season will receive formal recognition.

Ferguson Toastmaster
A. L. Ferguson, vice-president of Glendale Union High school, will act as toastmaster at the banquet. Officials of the different organizations, who will be in charge of the banquet and program, will include R. E. Johnston, George B. Karr, George J. Lyons, Irving H. Oliver, Albert Cornwell, D. Ripley Jackson, Elwood Ingledue, and others yet to be chosen. The Glendale Realty board, merchants' association, Kiwanis, Rotary, Optimist, Exchange and Lions clubs will co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in staging the affair.

Girls from the high school will serve the banquet, a five-piece selected high school orchestra will play. The tentative program which has been announced by Mr. Lyons includes the singing of America, invocation by Rev. C. A. Cole, song by the boys, "Fair Glendale," and selections by the orchestra during the serving of the dinner.

Introduction of Principal George U. Moyses, Coaches Hayhurst, Pierce, Butterfield, Hicks and Wolf, Captain Ryan, Reid, and Killinger, and members of all three Glendale teams will be followed by an address of welcome in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and the service clubs by Mr. Karr. Following this will come the main talk by either Walter Eckersall or Coach Henderson.

Burbank took both games over the week-end, defeating Los Angeles Gas club 13 to 1 on Saturday and Owensmouth 7 to 3 yesterday. Crowder did the mound work for the Burbankers on Saturday and allowed only six hits. Konkright held Owensmouth to four hits on Sunday.

The Glendale Caseys continued their winning streak yesterday, defeating the Manchester Heights council 18 to 3. "Chief" Butler held the losers to three hits, getting six strikeouts. Meyers rattled out a homer in the second inning with the bases loaded. The local Caseys scored ten runs in the second frame, pounding Schmutte out of the box. Glendale got 24 hits, every man connecting. M. Doll also hit 1,000.

Dick Bonnelly pitched a shutout game for Azusa yesterday against Arcadia, allowing only four hits. Hansen had the better of strikeouts, getting eleven to Bonnelly's four, but Hansen was touched for seven hits, two hits in the sixth counting for the only run made during the game.

Ernie Haycox, stellar hurler for Inglewood, was driven from the mound in the seventh inning in the game yesterday against Southern California Gas team, the gasers winning 3 to 1. Bell finished the game. Quinn hurled effective ball against Inglewood, allowing only six hits.

Sam Ross and Bill Pertica, pitching for Pasadena Merchants, allowed one hit each to Gilmore Oilers yesterday at Gilmore park, and the merchants won, 1 to 0.

Carlisle got a hit off Red in the first inning, and Spencer grabbed one off Pertica in the last inning. Ferdie Schupp, hurling for the Oilers, was touched for seven hits.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Lunatics over in London are writing and editing a magazine. That's nothing new. They do that right in Hollywood, only editors aren't called lunatics. They're in disguise. London apparently thinks it has something original. Londoners never scanned bookstands in subway kiosks in New York or drug stores in Hollywood. Lunatic editions always can be distinguished by covers. They couldn't publish without undressed woman decorating cover.

One London lunatic in recent edition of Bug House Fables went into literary spasms about a butterfly. That guy could have got rich material down around Pershing Square in L. A. or at corner of Cahuenga and Hollywood boulevard, Hollywood—the 42nd street and Fifth avenue of picture town.

Motion picture "extras" and some unextra and extraordinary run the most beautiful specimens in captivity or imagination ragged around late afternoon hours. Once in a while they catch one. Then they re-enact Henry Wallis's part at Little Colonel in "Birth of Nation," making Henry look like tent-show super.

We suggest Susie McTish, late custard pie comedienne, more late than early, now super-star with Usless Filiums Productions, apply for society editor's desk. Susie could dash off briefs and personals about her experiences jerking soda in Wild Hog Canyon, Texas corner and only drug store.

Susie should be able to tear off enough copy to keep all bug house limotype operators in England busy pushing the keys. She might contrast Wild Hog Canyon society with bungalow set in Hollywood foothills as a bi-monthly feature.

She could tell how she trapped in rush that crammed necks to take in Valentino's whiskers when he stepped off transcontinental rattler recently. Her experiences getting psychic thrills over Valentino air waves would prove nice diversion for bug who thinks he's Mayor of Tokio.

Susie could keep copy readers busy mispelling two-syllable words and interpolating words "dees, dis and dos" monologue on "How a Custard Pie Blazed Way for Stardom."

Gwendolyn Gwynplaine might, once in a while, collaborate with Susie—that is, providing Bug House Fables managing editor would give Susie an assistant and he surely would if he could hear Gwendolyn describe the thrill she got when Percival Pennington made love to her in the bedroom scene in Archie Doolittle's super-drama of a passionate life, "Nellie, Gum Chewing Demon."

With these two chasing a Corono around Bug House Fables editorial room, lunatics magazine would make the Late Lord Northcliffe's Times look like Police Gazette.

Susie might "scoop" interview with Ramsay MacDonald and find out the difference between his defeat and La Follette's using the butterfly style of the guy who went into spasms about winged creature. This would put Susie in line for editor in chief of some Hollywood magazines devoted to "art in the movies."

In the meantime Gwendolyn could describe latest step originated by Prince and get him to tell how he learned to play banjo-uke.

After which Susie and Gwendolyn collaborating could take over the fillum sections of L. A. papers. It takes imagination of lunatic to read copy on exhaustive stories about fillum stars, domestic troubles and how they spent Xmas and are going to spend New Year's.

Lunatics over in London after getting their Bug House Fables going nicely should take over production unit of fillums. Imagination is the secret of good fillums and that guy and his butterfly escapades could be featured in a series of two-reelers entitled "How I Developed My Imagination."

Roberts Wins Main Event at Riverside

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 29.—Breaking the track record in the time trials by one-fifth of a second, Chance Kingsley yesterday piloting a Frontenac, traversed the Riverside fair grounds half-mile track in 30 2-5. Floyd Roberts received the honors of the main event of the day when he pushed his Essex special ahead of the favorites, Ormsby, Allen and Bergere, doing the fifteen laps in 8:55. Ormsby was second, Kingsley third and Allen fourth. Ormsby, Cantlon, Kingsley and Bermuda were other winners of the day's race program, postponed from Christmas day.

It was announced recently at Portsmouth, England, that when the king visited there "drinking" hours will be from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m.

CARDINALS REACH SCENE OF BATTLE

Stanford Team Works Out at Rose Bowl; Notre Dame
Due on Wednesday

By CAL FISHER
For Southland News Service.

PASADENA, Dec. 29.—Greeted by upwards of 2000 alumni and friends the Cardinal crew from Stanford arrived in Los Angeles yesterday on the Southern Pacific. Pasadena, as representatives of the Pacific coast in the East-West football struggle at the Rose Bowl New Year's day. The team is registered at Vista del Arroyo.

Today was marked by light practice at the bowl with old Pop Warner counting his charges evening minutes to assure himself that none were getting lost in the traffic. Foxy Knute Rockne has been keeping the Notre Dame eleven under cover at Tucson, Ariz., the past three days, conditioning them on Arizona ozone, and making ready for a grand entry into Pasadena the day before the game.

The Fighting Irish from Indiana are hoping for cold weather, being visibly affected by the sunshine at Tucson where they have jumped around the University of Arizona gridiron. Stanford will not be worried by the climate unless it snows.

Pasadena today reports an influx of tourists from the east who left Christmas night for the winter season in the west which officially opens with the Tournament of Roses.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—To the Detroit Tigers is reported to have fallen the juiciest pitching plum on the college tree. He is Owen Carroll of Holy Cross, a right hander with speed and a drop ball that have been the admiration of every scout who has seen Carroll's work.

College men who have played against him say there is no college pitcher like him and some of them expect to see him develop into the best pitcher who ever left college to enter professional baseball.

Two years ago every effort was made by scouts to induce Carroll to sign a big league contract. He did not wish to leave college and turned down the offers, one of which was said to be as high as $10,000. It was reported then that Carroll had decided to give up baseball after he left college and to continue his studies for the priesthood. That report ended the rivalry for his services.

Now, it begins to appear, Carroll did not really intend to enter the priesthood, but did nothing to prevent that report from circulating because he realized it would head off the importunities of his league scouts, which were interfering with his college pursuits. Next year is his last at Holy Cross, and he will captain his college team.

If Detroit has him safely captured, and it seems fairly certain that such is the case, the Tigers have a pitcher who may rate as highly as any college man who has ever been a member of an American league club. His staunchest supporters envisage him as a second Mathewson.

Carroll should be able to start in with Detroit at once if he really has been signed. He is good enough and has been well enough coached not to need a long tryout season in a minor league.

Huntzinger of Pennsylvania, who was signed by the Giants and who has had a year with New York, has shown occasional skill, but players who have had an opportunity to compare the two say that Carroll is far more likely to make a great major league record than the Pennsylvania man, and always has been a better pitcher—which will give some line on the possibilities of this youngster who soon may don a Tiger uniform.

Detroit let Bert Cole go to Vernon for more work. Cobb was disappointed in his left hander in 1924. He felt sure that Cole would come through with the best season he ever had and with both Cole and Whitehill figured that he had a chance to left-hand the American league to death. Whitehill was the more experimental of the two, but Whitehill proved something of a pitcher, while Cole could not collect himself and did not follow his start of 1923 with enough steadiness to rate him as a great pitcher.

There are two or three veterans on the Detroit staff who will have to show something early next spring or be let out, as the Tigers are looking for quick results from their pitching staff and will not experiment half of the season.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Although defeated 20 to 7 by the University of Southern California, the Missouri eleven played strong football and did nothing to cast reflection upon the sort of game they play in the middle west. Chiefly interesting among the phases of this game was the further demonstration that there are two sorts of forward passes, those with a scoring punch attached and those that merely gain ground. Missouri had the latter variety and Southern California the more efficient sort.

The reason for this was that the Los Angeles eleven seems to have been able to use her running attacks not only as a definite gain but to cross the defense by making a forward pass attack behind it.

Two of the California passes were productive of clean and unquestioned touchdowns right out of the box. One ball, thrown from the 45 yard line was caught by the receiver who stood with one foot over the Missouri goal. When you have a passer who can accurately hurl a ball 45 yards you stand an excellent chance of making a score.

Upon another occasion a Southern California receiver, having evaded the defense and caught a twenty yard pass in the clear continued another 23 yards for a touch down.

The difference in effectiveness of the forward passes thrown by the two teams is to be read in the fact that Missouri threw twenty-one passes of which they completed seven for a gain of 67 yards while of the Trojans' nine passes, four were completed and two of them counted for touchdowns.

Any team is likely to score by the overhead route and so the score of 20 to 7 appears worse for Missouri than was really the case. It was evidently a good game of football.

Knute Rockne is quite right when he says that the installation of the forward pass as a method of football attack saved the game in 1906. Anyone whose memory carries back eighteen years will recall the plight in which football found itself.

There had been several bad accidents to players on college elevens, and criticism of the pushing and hauling type of game that was being played with the ball in sight only when it was punted or drop kicked had got to a pitch where many enemies of the opportunity for which they had been looking to kill it.

The forward pass, increase in yardage to be gained for a first down, with increase in the number of downs, gave the game a spectacular quality it had not before possessed and among other things enabled smaller colleges through development of proficiency in the overhead game, to meet teams of larger institutions upon much more favorable terms than formerly.

They say football is getting too much like basketball. Well, it may be and it is a fine thing if so. If scores can be made without the constant crashing of massed bodies against massed bodies, without the dangerous piling and grinding of players so much the better for the game.

There will always be running in football because the whole tactical scheme of the game involves running from scrimmage, if only as a mask for forward pass operations. Forward passing could not survive if the defense had only the overhand toss to guard against. For this reason it will never dominate the game. Any tampering with the rules that uphold it will be perilous to the sport.

TO-NIGHT'S CARD

The Pasadena gymnasium reports heavy entries coming in for the first annual invitational boxing and wrestling meet which is to take place in the arena of the gymnasium this week, beginning tonight. The preliminaries are tonight, semi-finals on New Year's eve and finals on the first night of the new year.

Medals will be given which will be indicative of the placement that applicants win in the three-day tryout for amateur supremacy.

Following are among those registered for the competition: Joe Tate, Glendale; Tommy Wogast, Pasadena; Eddie Shannon, Santa Monica; Jess Cox, Pasadena; Jess Kennedy, Pasadena; Tuffy Jiggs, Long Beach; Sally Martinez, Pasadena; Tom Brady, Glendale; Joe Kabbage, San Madrea; Don Mesa, Pasadena; Cecil Paddock, Pasadena; Joe Burke, Hollywood; Earl White, Alhambra; Jimmy Bearne, Pasadena; Young Porter, Alhambra; Paul Hardy, Salt Lake City; Billie Fox, U. S. C.; Jimmie O'Fallon, Glendale; Art Parker, Hollywood.

Race Program Planned For Hemet Next Fall

HEMET, Dec. 29.—The days of the dons are returning to California in the revival of horse racing, according to Fred Ward, well known horseman in this valley. He is promoting a race program for Hemet next fall, to follow the Los Angeles county fair at Pomona.

Ten years ago Hemet was the mecca of turfmen—as were other centers in olden days. It is Ward's suggestion that fairs in the southland should have a free gate, but charge for grandstand seats at racing programs, to encourage attendance.

Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Eastern boxers and their managers perked up like wilted flowers when you pour water on them since word came from California as to the personnel of the new boxing commission.

If talk amounts to anything, there will be an exodus of star boxers of the east and middle west and south to the sunny clime of the west coast in response to summons from Jack Doyle of Los Angeles and Tommy Simpson of Oakland, two west coast promoters who seem to know more about how things should be done than a lot of their competitors.

Every indication is that the new boxing commission in California is very favorable to boxing and that no obstacles will be put in the way of a thorough tryout of the sport. For instance, Captain Seth W. P. Strilinger, of the American Legion, who is one of the new comers, has for the past year been director of the legion stadium boxing shows at Hollywood.

Tiger Flowers is a wise young negro. Some one asked him the other day whether he ever intended to seek a bout with young Strilinger. And the Tiger turned to the questioner—it was Fred Bendel of Newark—and spoke these beautiful words: "Man, I'm not stepping out of anybody's way but I'm not inviting death either. I have got no part of a hankering to meet a white man from Georgia. Because you know some day I may want to go back to that fine state to live."

A railroad bridge with a span of 137 feet was put in the place of an old one within twenty-four hours in England recently.

A Campaign of Lies against Southern California

FEW local people realize the extent to which Los Angeles and surrounding cities have been maligned during the past year by newspapers throughout the United States. Alarmed at the flow of wealth and population to Southern California, these newspapers have published one sensational article after another, intended to frighten their readers from leaving home.

Southern California, according to these hair-raising reports, has been killed off with plague and smallpox, burnt up with forest fires, dried out with drought, blown to pieces by cyclones, eaten alive by destructive pests, starved out with crop failure.

IT has been asserted that inhabitants of Southern California are prohibited by law from taking baths due to water shortage; that 40,000 unemployed are fed at soup kitchens; that homes are lighted by candles, on account of lack of electricity; that Southern California has no natural resources and never can have any.

Nothing is mentioned about the fact that during 1924 the increase in Los Angeles' population required over 19,000 additional water connections; that during the year Los Angeles people increased their savings deposits by $57,000,000; and that approximately one-fourth of the output of all fresh fruits and vegetables in the United States will be produced in California.

THE reports also fail to point out that Los Angeles Harbor now handles more tonnage than San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Tacoma combined; that Los Angeles county is now assessed at about four times as much as the entire State of Florida; that in 20 years the value of Los Angeles' manufacturing has increased 7000%; that Los Angeles is the world's greatest oil center; the nation's second largest canned-fish packer; producer of 85% of the world's motion pictures; and that during the year Los Angeles' building activities exceeded every American city except New York and Chicago.

TO meet this situation, the Los Angeles Times, acting in co-operation with public-spirited citizens and business firms, has especially designed its Annual Midwinter Number, to be issued on January 1, 1925. It will consist of seven beautiful magazines, packed with authentic facts, analytical articles, and photographic reproductions. It will refute these false reports by setting forth the whole wonderful story of Southern California; its resources, advantages, attractions and opportunities.

Every one working or living in Southern California should send copies to Eastern friends and relatives!

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 29.—This city has been fortunate in receiving free publicity in three current magazines. 131 N. Brand. Glen. 2590.

YOUR PRICE

$7500 is asked for this wonderful home. Open for an offer. This man has to sell, has a good reason for selling; that's why you are assured of a good buy. Here it is:
practically new 6-room stucco, and it is built to stay. Interior finish will compare with $10,000 house in Glendale; on lot with 68 ft. frontage, with a world of shrubbery. Has double garage. Look this over and compare with anything you have seen at anywhere near the price.
Terms arranged with owner.

INDEX TO CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT PAGE 6 OF THIS ISSUE OF THE EVENING NEWS

Of course when you want to buy merchandise of any kind you are anxious to patronize a Glendale dealer. When you wish to employ professional skill it is your desire to secure a local man. When repair work is needed it is to your advantage to have the work done by mechanics near home. The object of this index column is to refer you to the CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT on page 6 of this issue, where you will find listed a large number of merchants, tradesmen and professional men who are real boosters for Glendale. While the Community Loyalty Section will appear in The Evening News one day every week, yet readers are advised to cut it out and hold it for reference for the purpose of ascertaining names and locations of business firms in Glendale.

FRICION DENIED IN COAST LEAGUE

Report That Bill Lane After Williams' Resignation Is Called Untrue

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—Denial that there is any friction between Harry A. Williams, president of the Pacific Coast league, and Bill Lane, owner of the Salt Lake franchise, was made today by both men.

"There is nothing to the report that I am dissatisfied with Williams," Lane said today. "We roomed together on our trip to the minor and major league meetings, and I have seen him several times since I arrived in Los Angeles. There has been no cause for disagreement."

A story was circulated that Lane was dissatisfied with Williams and would try to have Judge W. W. McCredie substituted for the present league head at the next annual meeting. Duffy Lewis was quoted as having told Ed Maier of the Vernon club that Lane felt that way.

"Bill Lane, Duffy Lewis and Tom Turner are three of my staunchest supporters," Williams said today. "I do not know how such a story could start. It is one of those winter yarns."

BOXING BOARD TO MEET JANUARY 2

3-Day Meeting Adjourned
Yesterday; Agree on Certain Points

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 29.—The next regular session of the State Athletic commission, which adjourned its three days' meeting yesterday, will be held here January 2, Secretary Walter A. Yarwood announced today.

In addition to issuing temporary permits to eight fight clubs, the commission definitely agreed on following points:

That regulation of smoking at fights could be left to the discretion of individual clubs.
That each commissioner would pass on applications for boxing show permits in his own district at his home office.

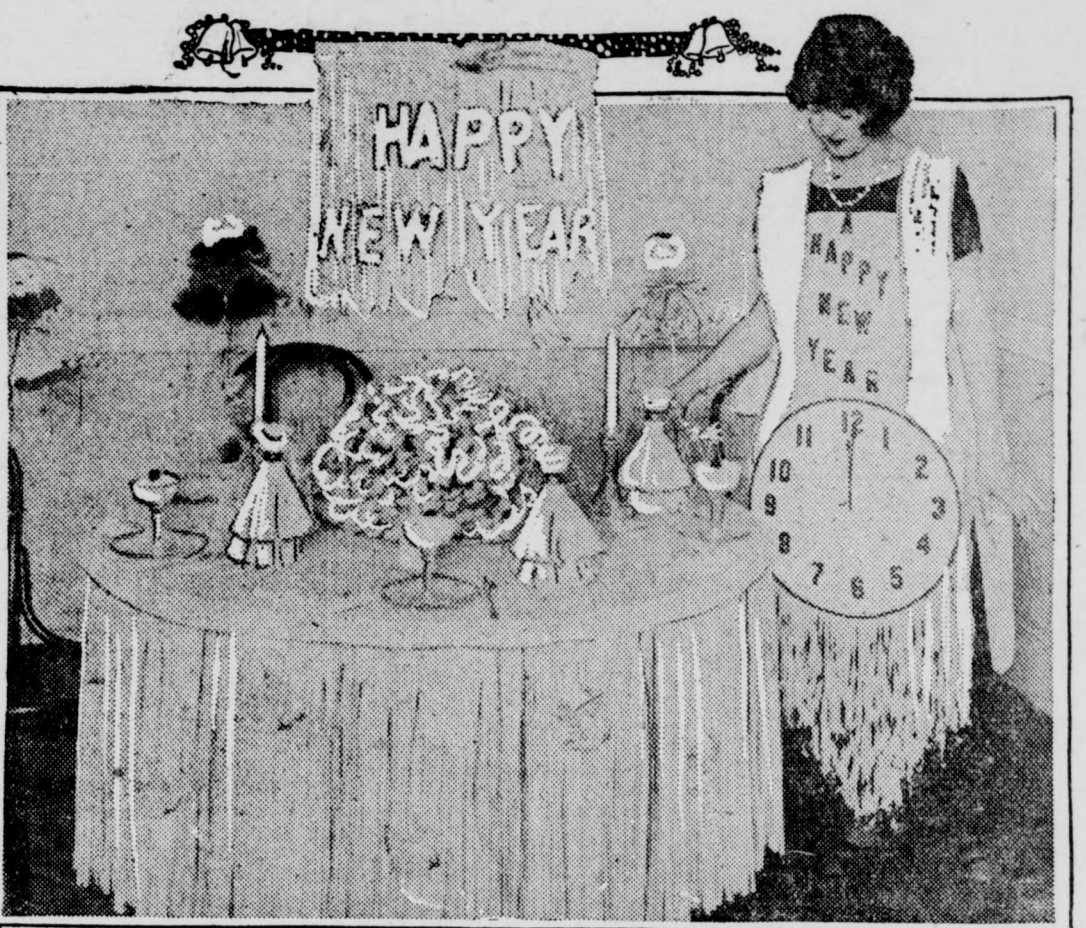

That until regular permits are issued, established clubs would be the only ones allowed to show fight cards.

DISEASE HITS ENGLAND
Because of the spread of foot and mouth disease in the New Forest of England, the training of troops there was called off recently.

Blue Birds for New Year Eve

When gaiety and pleasure rules the last day of the year, and the folks are gathered to await the arrival of 1925, the table decorations and hostess' costume should symbolize happiness, as depicted in the photograph below.

HELPS CRIPPLED PERSONS WALK

Milton H. Berry Devotes Life
To Ailing Unfortunate
Boys and Girls

What a wealth of meaning there is in the word Christmas.

But how little it means to the crippled and helpless, the maimed and the sick; and how much happiness last Christmas brought to two children whose outlook for the Yuletide some time ago had been bleak and dreary—all brought about by the skill and philanthropic spirit of a man who devoted his life to helping others and whose life's ambition is to build in Glendale an institution where the crippled and maimed may be reclaimed by the manipulation of his fingers and made to enjoy life as those with straight limbs do.

Milton H. Berry, a year ago, lived in Eagle Rock and in a limited way was working wonders in the treatment of crippled limbs. Eddie Doherty, famous as a writer for a Chicago paper, heard of his work and wrote a book about it. The book was published in serial form in a Los Angeles newspaper and stories of Mr. Berry's work were also printed in The Glendale Evening News.

Many Are Cured
The result was thousands called at Mr. Berry's residence and hundreds of machines were lined up in the street at all hours. Some of the cures were marvelous. Cures, possibly, is not the correct word to use, as it is not a cure, but a long, tedious course of treatment that restores useless muscles and tendons to activity.

In October Mr. Berry received a telegram from Eddie Doherty in New York that his 4½-year-old son had been stricken with infantile paralysis. The highest priced and most skillful surgeons in the east apparently could not restore little Jackie Jim to health. Mr. Berry took the first train for New York. When he arrived there he threw away the crutches, the braces and weights, treated the paralyzed muscles and promoted little Jackie Jim he would walk before Christmas. The following telegram tells the story: "New York, Dec. 24.

"Milton Berry.
"2308 Nottingham Place,
Los Angeles.

"Dear Doctor: We all wish you and all the Berrys the best Christmas we have ever had. You have made our Christmas a happy one, for Jackie Jim is walking now with only a slight limp; he gets better every day. Will start writing your new book as soon as I get settled in my new job. The best of luck go with you.

"EDDIE DOHERTY."
Mr. Doherty starts January 1 as one of the highest paid feature writers for the Hearst syndicate of newspapers.

Helps Glendale Girl
Of interest to Glendale is the cure made by Mr. Berry of Marjorie Curren, sixteen years old, of 1209 East Lexington street, where she and her widowed mother make their home. Marjorie didn't have a Christmas tree but—the Christmas present she received she wouldn't trade for all the Christmas presents in the world—for this Christmas day she walked for the first time since she was a mere babe, without the aid of crutches. When Marjorie was two years old she was stricken with infantile paralysis which left her a hopeless cripple, paralyzed from the waist down.

By means of steel braces and crutches she was able to hobble around. Marjorie's father died after a few years, then a step-father died, and her mother had to work hard to make ends meet. Last summer Marjorie's case was brought to the attention of Mr.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Dec. 29.—Four generations were represented at a family reunion at the Rutherford home, 301 Mountain View avenue, when members of the family gathered to partake of a Christmas dinner. Mrs. Jones, 90 years old, mother of Mrs. Helen Rutherford, was the honor guest. Others who participated in the holiday celebration were: Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Jones, the former a brother of Mrs. Rutherford and a grocer of Oakland; Fred Jones, San Diego paint store proprietor; Mr. Gustin, Los Angeles hardware merchant; Mr. and Mrs. Abe Tyan and daughter, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Rutherford, Pontanga orange grower; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, the former being a vocational teacher in the Los Angeles high school, and their two children; Mr. and Mrs. Theoret and two children, Tujunga; Miss Jones, sister of Mrs. Rutherford; Robert O. Rutherford, host and son, Robert, Jr.

A. C. Stover was presented with a belt and silver buckle by the Tujunga Kiwanis club on his retirement from the presidency of the club. Carroll W. Parcher succeeds him to that office.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Wieman, married a week ago, were presented with a chest of silver and kitchen utensil shower by the Kiwanis club at the installation of officers.

A nest egg for the new baby in the Earl C. Brunner home was started also at the same meeting of the Kiwanis club when saucerful of coins was collected from the banqueters and surmounted by a silver dollar from the pocket of the proud father. The money was given to A. Adams, cashier of the Tujunga Valley bank, for deposit and Mr. Adams was ordered by Mr. Stover to place another silver dollar on the plate in view of the fact that the money was being deposited in his bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Don S. Wieman have returned from their honeymoon and will make their home at 220 East El Centro street. Many beautiful wedding gifts were received from their many friends.

William H. Gale has been operating the picture projecting machine at the Tujunga Valley theater, where a heating system comprising three gas furnaces has been installed to keep the patrons comfortable during the cold weather.

Leo H. Smith and Sidney Smith, realtors, have dissolved their partnership and will operate separate offices. Leo H. Smith will maintain his office in Tujunga, while Sidney Smith will take the Eagle Rock office and business.

A miniature modern farm with many of the modern farm equipments has been on display in the show windows of the Fowler automobile agency on Michigan avenue. Automobiles and trucks were part of the display, showing the part they play in present-day farm life.

Mrs. Guy Barry recently gave a talk before the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon club, Fine Arts department, on the idealized phase of art.

According to self-circulated reports, the Tujunga realtors who have been taking educational course in real estate law and practice have received "excellent" on their grade cards for the first test taken on the first half of the course. There is an agreement among the students that the one receiving the best marks shall give a turkey dinner for the other members.

Dr. E. M. Spates has been securing plans of the zoning regulations in regard to sanitariums operated in Monrovia and Sierra Madre, for presentation in Tujunga, where there seems to be some agitation over the establishment and supervision of these institutions. A movement has been started to have zones established in Tujunga and Dr. Spates hopes to supply suggestions that will be of value in working out practical plans.

A watch party for New Year's eve! Surely there is no holiday which gives the hostess such a chance to entertain her friends delightfully or which contains such a thrill for the guests. There is something mystic about the "witching hour of night" when, instead of "the graveyard yawning," as Shakespeare says, the chimes ring out to welcome the New Year. And in spite of all previous discouragements we cannot help feeling that it is going to be a "glad New Year" that is thus auspiciously "rung in" with the New Year.

Above are a few suggestions for the decoration of the luncheon table and a suitable costume for the hostess. Bluebirds, emblems of happiness, are considered fitting decorations for this time. The electric light globe is covered with a long fringe of white crepe paper on which black letters cut from cardboard and silvered are pasted. Bluebirds cut from decorated crepe paper are fastened to the fringe.

The table cover is bordered with the white crepe paper fringe divided at intervals with strands of tinsel ribbon. The centerpiece is made of green crepe paper cut into petals and twisted; then formed into a large pom-pom. Bluebirds cut from crepe paper are pasted to a light covered wire which has been formed into a spiral by twisting around a pencil. The spiral is fastened to heavier wire stuck into the pom-pom.

The little figures carrying nut cup baskets on their heads are painted horns dressed up in crepe paper. The clown head favors are made from balls of cotton covered smoothly with crepe paper on which faces are painted. The paper ends are fastened to a dowel with spool wire. Two full ruffles are fastened with tinsel ribbon around the neck of each clown, to which bells are hung.

The hostess' costume is a very simple slip-over made of white crepe paper to which letters are pasted to the dress.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 29.—The Christmas plans of the Charles Turcks were disrupted by the sudden serious illness of Mr. Turck. Bulletins from the sick room state that at present he is resting quietly but not allowed to receive callers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cochran of East Montrose avenue entertained at their house guests over the holidays Mrs. Olive Mix and daughter, Ruth, of Hollywood. On Christmas day the Cochrans were hosts to a company of eight out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Seymour Thomas is recuperating from her recent attack of the grippie, which was responsible for the cancellation of various Christmas party engagements of the family.

Services will now be held regularly at the new Church of St. Luke of the Mounts every Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock. Sunday school services for the children will be held at 9:45 o'clock. The Christmas morning services were well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tillinghast of Prospect avenue entertained twenty guests for dinner on Saturday night. After dinner the company motored to Tujunga to the Garden of the Moon where dancing was enjoyed.

Captain Hansen announces a meeting of the La Crescenta Girl Scouts to be held at her home on East Piedmont avenue at 7 o'clock tonight.

BEARS WORK HARD BEFORE BIG GAME

California Players Prepare
For Pennsylvania on
New Year's Day

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 29.—Two more days of stiff practice were in sight for the California Bears as Andy Smith winds up his preparation for meeting the invasion of University of Pennsylvania here New Year's day. One day of rest before the game will put the Bruins in tip-top shape, he believes. Meanwhile Pennsylvania speeding westward for the game is keeping in shape by workouts en route. The Penn squad braved zero temperatures at Omaha, Neb., for a short workout, representatives of the eleven now here were advised today.

Two Pennsylvania regular ends will not start the game, according to the line-up received here today, while Rau and Huber will hardly get into the fray for California. Otherwise both elevens will present their strongest line-ups.

Carlson, Dixon, Imlay and Griffin will make up the California backfield, with Griffin at fullback. California will be considerably outweighed, statistics given out here today indicated. The Penn line averages 189 against 185 for California, and the Penn backfield 175½ against 167 for the western eleven.
